

Three Methods Of Neutrality Bill Revival Are Discussed

Talks 'Very Much in Study Stage,' Barkley Says

'STILL HOPEFUL'

Chances for Revision to Be Discussed at White House

Washington (AP)—Despite growing hot-weather sentiment for adjournment, administration leaders in congress took under consideration today three possible methods of reviving the controversial neutrality bill at this session.

Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) the majority leader, told reporters that the discussions, while "very much in the study stage," were centering on these possibilities:

1. The senate might be asked to discharge the foreign relations committee from further responsibility for the bill, which then would go directly to the floor for debate.
2. The legislation might be attached to some other pending bill as a "rider."
3. Some member of the foreign relations committee might be won over to the administration viewpoint, thereby reversing the 12 to 11 vote by which the committee recently shelved neutrality legislation until the next session.

"We have not given up," Barkley asserted. "We still are hopeful that something can be done."

Night Conference

Meanwhile, an extraordinary night conference at the White House was arranged today by administration leaders, apparently for the purpose of weighing finally the chances for neutrality revival this session.

The meeting, it was reported authoritatively, will include President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, Barkley, Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) of the senate foreign relations committee and three senate Republicans—Minority Leader McNary of Oregon, Borah of Idaho and Austin of Vermont.

Senator Borah conferred yesterday with colleagues opposing the administration neutrality program. He told reporters that all committee members who had voted to shelve the legislation for this session were standing firm.

Disclosure of tonight's conference plan immediately stirred speculation on whether the White House might entertain thoughts of compromise, especially if leaders of both parties carried word that predominant senate sentiment favored postponement.

Back Measure to Aid Latin America

House Committee Would Help Southern Nations Bolster Defenses

Washington (AP)—The house foreign affairs committee voted unanimously today to recommend legislation designed to help Latin American republics bolster their defenses.

First, however, it made some changes to insure protection of this country's military secrets.

The measure, advocated by the state department, would permit the war and navy departments to manufacture coast defense and anti-aircraft artillery and ammunition for other American republics and to build warships for them.

Committee members said the bill was in harmony with the Monroe doctrine and encountered no opposition. They asserted it would not cost the United States anything.

Before acting, the committee heard testimony behind closed doors from Admiral William D. Leahy, retiring chief of naval operations; General George C. Marshall, new army chief of staff, and Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state.

Leahy was said to have been asked by a committee member whether in building warships and artillery for other American governments this country might not divulge some of its exclusive military developments.

He was represented as replying that any features of equipment not known generally would be withheld under the proposed legislation.

Would Give Japan 6 Months Notice Of Pact Abrogation

Washington (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) offered in the senate today a resolution to require that Japan be given the specified six months notice of abrogation of the 1911 treaty of amity and commerce between that country and this.

The resolution also would call for reconvening of the Brussels conference of 1937, now in recess, to determine whether Japan has been or is violating the nine power treaty pledging respect of the territorial integrity of China.

At Vandenberg's request the resolution was sent to the foreign relations committee.

The committee already is considering a resolution by Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) to give the president power to restrict the export of war materials to Japan because of her alleged violation of the nine power pact by discriminating against American citizens in China.

The committee has asked Secretary of State Hull to rule on whether action contemplated in the Pittman resolution would be in violation of the treaty of amity between the two countries.

GETS U. S. POST
Washington (AP)—The agriculture department announced today the appointment of Dr. Olat S. Cardon, recently named assistant chief of the bureau of plant industry.

Japanese Vessel Sinks in Flames; 209 are Rescued

Freighter Was Carrying Cargo of Nitrates From Chile

San Francisco (AP)—The Marine Exchange said today 209 of 212 persons reported aboard the Japanese freighter Bokuyo Maru were rescued shortly before the ship sank in flames 1,125 miles east of Yokohama.

Earlier reports had placed only 110 aboard the 8,169-ton vessel.

The Bokuyo Maru, operated by the NKKF line (Japanese mail steamship company), left San Pedro, Calif., July 2. It had put in there after a cargo of nitrates, loaded at Valparaiso, Chile, began smoldering in the forward hold.

Tokio (AP)—The American tanker Associated radioteled tonight she had reached the 8,619-ton Japanese liner Bokuyo Maru, after 1,125 miles east of Yokohama, and steamship company officials expressed hope for the rescue of all aboard.

The brief message received here from the Associated, 6,400-ton vessel owned by the Tidewater Associated Oil company, gave no details of rescue operations. Four Japanese vessels were hurrying to the scene.

Hijackers Seize Five Slot Machines in Raid

Kenosha (AP)—The sheriff's office reported today that three carloads of hijackers held up three employees at the Kenosha Country club yesterday and removed five slot machines.

Three men walked into the club bar and ordered drinks. Sheriff Leo Schend was informed, paid for the drinks and packages of cigarettes and then the leader told Manager Alex Moraski, "we're taking the machines."

When Moraski attempted to resist, he told the sheriff, the men drew pistols and forced the employees to line up against a wall.

Then the band hauled out the machines and drove away. No trace has been found of the hijackers, the sheriff said.

Relief Chiefs Eye Problems Under New Act

Trying to Enforce Other Restrictions Approved by Congress

STRIKES ARE OVER

State Administrators Must Cut 300,000 Off Rolls by Aug 1

Washington (AP)—With the strike of WPA workers over the new 130-hour work month apparently ended, except in a few cities, relief officials turned their attention today to enforcing other restrictions enacted recently by congress.

State administrators struggled with the problem of trimming 300,000 names off the WPA rolls by Aug. 1 to conform to a reduced budget. The law requires furloughs of those on the rolls continuously for 18 months, and Colonel F. C. Harrington, the WPA commissioner, said such persons would constitute most of those dropped.

In Washington headquarters, WPA chiefs studied means of eliminating geographical differentials in pay to preserve the present national average security wage of $22.20. Harrington said this would necessitate increases in the south and decreases in the north and west. He predicted it would cause a "howl."

Still Fight Law

Return of striking workers to their jobs did not end the attempt of labor leaders to obtain repeal of the 130-hour law in favor of the old prevailing wage system. The law requires each employee to work 130 hours in a monthly security wage, thus lowering the hourly rate of some craftsmen.

William Green and other A. F. of L. leaders called on congressional leaders in Washington yesterday. Green said the labor officials were neither encouraged nor discouraged by the reception of their suggestions, but most congress members predicted the session would end with no change in the law.

The strike situation in Pennsylvania and Minnesota differed from Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota was attempting to reach a solution of the Minneapolis strike problem through conferences with labor leaders. All but a few minor WPA projects in Minneapolis were closed.

Against Permanent Senate Liberties Probe Committee

Washington (AP)—Senator Byrnes (D-N.C.) told the senate yesterday that if it desired to maintain a permanent committee to investigate violations of civil liberties it should take action accordingly rather than continue its present temporary committee.

He said he believed such investigations should be made by the department of justice because it had the authority to enforce the law where violations occurred.

Byrnes is chairman of the senate committee on audit and control, which must act on proposals to expand senate funds for investigations.

He made the statement after Senator Schwelienbach (D-Wash.) told the senate that Byrnes' committee had failed to act on his proposal to continue the life of the civil liberties committee.

Senator Hatch (D-N.M.) asked whether the senate had not been informed last year that if it appropriated $60,000 for the investigation no further request for funds would be made.

Five Louisiana Political And Business Heads Named, In U. S. Grand Jury Charges

New Orleans (AP)—With indictment of five political and business figures on a charge they carried out a scheme to sell Louisiana State university $75,000 worth of furnishings in a hotel already owned by the university, the federal government indicated today its renewed interest in the complicated political structure left by the late "Kingfish" Huey P. Long.

Seymour Weiss, New York and New Orleans hotel man who was sponsored by the "Kingfish," was named with four others in the indictments returned yesterday by the federal grand jury.

Weiss, former treasurer of Long's political organization, was one of several persons charged with income tax evasion more than four years ago. Criminal prosecution of the charge was dropped, as were the charges against other top lieutenants of Long, after the senator's death. Weiss paid a $38,746.10 civil claim.

Indicted jointly with Weiss yesterday were Dr. James Monroe Smith, whose resignation as president of Louisiana State university several weeks ago "broke" the political scandal that launched numerous state and federal inquiries;

Heil Would Dismiss 1,300 Workers, Add $6,000,000 To Present Tax Proposals

Senate Passes Bill to Re- vamp U. W. Board Of Regents

ROAD PLAN LOST

Kills Own Measure for Reorganizing High- way Commission

Madison (AP)—The senate today passed the Roethe bill to reorganize the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents but definitely killed its own bill for reorganization of the state highway commission.

The net result was one victory and one reverse for Governor Heil, whose special message to the legislature a short time later, urged approval of all details of his sweeping program to cut down on the number of officials exercising administrative and quasi-judicial authority.

The roll calls were taken about an hour before the governor delivered his message.

The regents bill, sponsored by Senator E. J. Roethe (R) Fennimore, would reduce the university supervising board from 15 to 9 members, all of whom would be appointed by the governor with the consent of the senate.

Mack Against Bill

In short order the bill was tabled 16 to 15, suddenly revived on a switch of votes, approved 18 to 15 and sent to the assembly. On the minority side were 10 Progressives, 2 Republicans, Mack, of Shiocton and Gentleman of Milwaukee; and three Democrats, Gawronski and Zimny of Milwaukee and Sauld of Pembina.

The senate once before had defeated the administration bill to eliminate the three man highway commission and name one director in its place. On a motion to reconsider it once more killed the proposal 18 to 13.

Highway reorganization, however, still is not a dead issue for the assembly has pending a similar

Swimmer Drowns In Fox River at Stroebe's Island

Searchers Drag for Body Of Elmer Becher, 29, Appleton Tavernkeeper

Elmer Becher, 29, 1235 W. Eighth street, operator of Bob's tavern, 1428 W. Second street, drowned while swimming in the Fox river near Stroebe's island south of Appleton about 7 o'clock this morning. Winnebago county authorities still were dragging the river for the body early this afternoon.

Becher and Jack Murphy, 20, 1427 W. College avenue, planned to go fishing and went up the river from Appleton in Becher's small motor boat.

According to Murphy, Becher said he was going to take a swim. Becher dove in, though Murphy advised against it, and the oars on the boat loosened and fell into the water. Murphy said. Murphy removed some of his clothing and swam after them, he said.

Becher then yelled for help, but by the time Murphy had reached the boat to go to his aid the swimmer sank. Murphy dove several times but could not find him and he then called cottagers who notified authorities. Murphy said Becher went into the water with most of his clothes on.

Besides the widow, Becher is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Becher, Appleton, one brother, Clarence, Appleton; and one sister, Miss Viola Becher, Appleton.

Four Guardsmen Ordered Demoted

Three Sergeants and Cor- poral Reduced to Rank of Private

Madison (AP)—Lieutenant Colonel John F. Mullen, of the adjutant general's staff, said today three national guard sergeants and a corporal, all of Beloit, had been demoted to the rank of private as a result of a military investigation of the traffic accident July 8 in which Walter H. Trush, 29, Beloit national guardsman, was killed near Oregon.

The demotions of Sergeants Theodore Florey, Adney Carr and Lloyd Scollard, and Corporal Charles Porter, will become effective immediately after they complete their duties at the current encampment at Camp Douglas ending Saturday.

Corporal Philip Hartley, Milwaukee, driver of the truck in which Trush was killed, has been charged with manslaughter and driving under the influence of liquor.

Florey, Carr, Scollard and Porter, and Miss Margaret Porterfield, 22, of Roscoe, Ill., who were riding in the truck when it overturned and burned, were questioned by Assistant District Attorney Henry F. Behnke here yesterday.

Captain Chester E. Allen, of Beloit, commanding officer of Company L, 125th infantry, and Private Philip Short, Beloit, an occupant of a truck behind the machine Hartley was driving, also were questioned.

Captain Allen said Colonel William A. Holden, commanding officer of the 125th infantry, had approved his recommendation for the demotions on two grounds—a breach of regulations in not disclosing the presence of Miss Porterfield in the truck, and that they disobeyed direct orders by drinking enroute from Beloit to Camp Douglas.

Chicagoan Arrested For Having Revolver

Oconto (AP)—H. E. Wood, 35, who gave his business address as 220 S. Ashland avenue, Chicago, who officers said was the milk drivers union headquarters, pleaded innocent here today to a charge of unlawfully carrying a loaded revolver.

He was arrested after Frank Winters, Underhill, was wounded in the shoulder early today in what Wood described as an accident while playing a prank on his companion.

Wood was released on $1,000 bond for a hearing July 29.

15 Killed as Boiler On Steamer Explodes

Swinemunde, Germany (AP)—Fifteen persons were killed and 18 injured last night when a boiler exploded on the 17,000-ton steamer Berlin about 15 miles at sea.

There were no passengers aboard, said today's brief announcement.

Reduce State Personnel by 10 Per Cent, Governor Asks In Plea for Balanced Budget

Madison (AP)—The text of Governor Heil's message to the legislature follows:

It is my purpose in appearing before you to make to you as clear and concise a statement of the finances of our state as I can possibly make, and to offer some recommendations for your earnest consideration.

In the first place, I thank you for the effort and cooperation you are putting forth to legislate for the good of all our citizens. I would like to believe that every member of this legislature is genuinely interested in the upbuilding of Wisconsin.

During the budget hearing we discovered that the general fund of the state treasury was practically exhausted. In addition we found that the state was indebted to the highway fund over $20,678,000. In addition to that the state was indebted to the teachers' retirement fund $4,473,000. We found also that the requests of various departments averaged 25 per cent above those of previous askings.

A few general principles are very clear to me. We must simplify state government. We must reduce the cost of government. We must bring about lower taxes. We must remove restrictions on free enterprise. We must encourage individual stability and security. We must help the farmer, the laborer and the business man, big or little.

Must End Injustices

It is the function of the legislature to remedy existing evils or injustices. This can be done by enacting, amending or repealing laws. I believe you are sincere in promoting

Court to Decide if Husband Has Legal Right to Spank Wife

Peoria, Ill. (AP)—Does a husband have the legal right to spank his wife?

That question today was set for a hearing on July 27 by Police Magistrate William Kenney as the result of charges of assault and battery filed against Maynard Daum, 23.

The complainant was the wife, Eva, 19, who said she was the spankee. She told the magistrate her husband took her in his car to a park last Saturday and gave her a "just riding."

The reason the husband took his wife to the park for the spanking, the magistrate said, "Eva" explained, was so he wouldn't disturb the neighbors.

Battle Changes In U. S. Labor Act

CIO Vice President Sees Workers at 'Former Status of Weakness'

Washington (AP)—Philip Murray, CIO vice president who heads the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, told the house labor committee today that proposed amendments to the Wagner labor act were designed "to reduce workers to their former status of weakness."

Murray was the first of the witnesses to present the official CIO in respect to amendments sponsored by American Federation of Labor leaders.

While Murray asserted the national labor relations act "is fair," he disputed A. F. of L. contention that the labor board was pro-CIO. He said:

"In practically every case in which there has been a conflict between an A. F. of L. craft union and the S. W. O. C. the board has upheld the contentions of the A. F. of L. and permitted it to nibble away at our industrial organization."

He discussed labor union history at length and, closing, asserted: "The hectic campaign to amend the act is evidence—conclusive evidence—in proof for its essential fairness. The chief purpose of the act was to even up the bargaining power between employers and workers. Equitable relations between a worker and his employer are impossible when one party is far superior in strength to the other. The act is fair. The proposed amendments are unfair . . . because they propose to turn the balance of power back to employers so that they can force the workers back to their former status of weakness."

Youthful Killer Faces Execution

Jury Convicts Robert Burgunder of Murder- ing Auto Salesman

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—Death in the state's lethal gas chamber was decreed Robert Burgunder, 22-year-old college sophomore, today by a jury which convicted him of killing Jack Peterson, Phoenix automobile salesman.

The youth's father, former Seattle prosecutor, had pleaded as head of defense counsel for a verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity and attempted to shoulder the blame as a "neglectful" and "ignorant" parent.

Peterson was one of two salesmen lured to death in the desert under the pretext that a customer wanted a car demonstrated. Burgunder, who previously had served a reformatory term, fled the scene and was captured in Tennessee.

His divorced parents both came to his defense, describing him as a youth with a gambling mania.

His mother said she was to blame for his mental condition the day of the slayings, having chided him in a letter without knowing he was brooding over gambling losses.

Burgunder heard the verdict without emotion.

His mother, Mrs. Ruth Burgunder, Alhambra, Calif., appeared deeply shocked.

Third Victim of Airplane Accident Dies at Manitowoc

Emil Opichka, 18, of Newton, was injured seriously. He was reported in fair condition.

Treasury Chief Lauds Roosevelt Lending Program

Calls It 'Real Advance Toward Bringing Expenditures Within Receipts'

Washington—(P)—Secretary Morgenthau praised the president's $2,800,000,000 lending bill today as a "real advance toward the goal of bringing our governmental expenditures within our receipts."

Testifying before the senate banking committee, the treasury head said he liked the idea of lending billions of dollars for self-liquidating projects.

"It may well turn out to mark a transition point in the public finances," he declared, adding: "We can substitute self-liquidating investments in place of outright government expenditures we shall have made a great step toward bridging the gap between revenue and expenditures."

"This distinction between self-liquidating investments and non-recoverable expenditures is not merely a bookkeeping one, but it is very soundly based."

Recoverable Costs
"In the case of non-recoverable expenditures the servicing of the debts created to finance them must be met out of general tax revenues."

However, in the case of self-liquidating loans such as are proposed in this bill, the interest and principal payments are met out of the earnings on the investment."

The secretary's formal statement made no mention of the administration's desire to pass the bill at this session instead of waiting until next year as some legislators have proposed, but yesterday he told reporters he favored immediate action.

Morgenthau reviewed major provisions of the bill. "These included items which, over the period of a few years, would provide $750,000,000 for highway projects; $350,000,000 for loans to municipalities; $500,000,000 for leasing railroad for rural electrification projects; $400,000,000 additional loan to farm tenants to enable them to buy their own land, and an additional $100,000,000 for export-import bank credits to finance foreign purchases of American merchandise."

Murray Is Member Of Group to Hear Dairy Bill Debate

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington—Congressman Reid F. Murray, Waupaca Republican, has been named for the subcommittee on agriculture committee of the house of representatives to hear testimony on the dairy parity bill of Congressman Merlin Hull, Black River Falls Progressive. Pierce (D., Ore.), Harry B. Coffey (D., Neb.), Fred C. Gilchrist (R., Iowa), and Ralph O. Brewster (R., Me.).

Hull was the first to testify on the need for stabilization of dairy products, such as that provided in his bill by the regulation of the cow population. The dairy industry was just as important as other branches of agriculture and was entitled to the same assistance, he said.

Congressman Bernard J. Gehrman, Melton Progressive, who is also slated to appear in favor of the bill, with William H. Fries, president of the Farmers' Equity of Wisconsin, and other agricultural representatives.

4,300 Persons are Killed During 1938 In Farm Accidents

More people are killed in the course of farm work than in any other one industry, according to the 1939 edition of Accident Facts, the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook. The agricultural accident death total in 1938 was 4,300, or 26 per cent of the all-industries total of 16,500.

There were 4,000 accident fatalities in trade and service industries, 2,700 in construction work, 2,000 in transportation and public utilities, 2,000 in manufacturing and 1,500 in mining, quarrying, oil and gas well operations.

In addition to the deaths there were 1,550,000 work accident injuries. The total of deaths and injuries representing an economic loss of about $650,000,000, the council estimates. However, 1938 deaths were 13 per cent fewer than in 1937, a saving of 2,500 lives.

Senate Passes Bill to Revamp Regents Board

bill introduced after the first recess in the senate.

The White bill to reorganize the public commission, another major agency involved in the revamping program, received a second endorsement today in the senate, which refused 17 to 12 to reconsider the vote by which it had been engrossed.

The reconsideration motion had been pending for nearly a month. The measure faces possibility of further delay before it comes up for passage.

The senate went through its most tumultuous session of the year last night, punctuated by one threat of armed and several futile attempts by administration forces to advance reorganization measures.

Republican-Democratic coalition leaders were unable to overcome repeated Progressive motions to delay action, and forced an adjournment a scant hour after the senate convened.

When Senator Joseph McDermid (P) of Ladysmith refused to take his seat after orders from Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland, tempers were stretched to the snapping point. McDermid finally was persuaded by the assistant sergeant-at-arms.

McDermid touched off the outbreak when, under pretext of explaining his vote on the roll call to adjourn, he attacked Wisconsin newspapers and press associations.

He tried to continue his statements when a point of order was raised, but Goodland warned: "I don't want to have any more trouble with you."

The senate was effectively tied up last night from acting on bills reorganizing the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents and the public service commission, and reducing automobile license fees, by moving calls of the house.

Senator Philip Nelson (P) of Maple added to the occasion by terming Governor Hall a "four-flusher."

Raps Governor
Nelson rose on a point of personal privilege and asserted that Hall in a speech at Sheboygan Sunday "criticized certain politicians in the senate for obstructing his program."

"I know what we're going to hear (today), before the joint session," Nelson declared. "It's going to be an all-bill to blame the legislature because of its inability to practice economy and carry out his promises. He's going to blame you and me."

"I believe the Progressives cannot be charged with holding up a program of any kind, and I want to take my hat off and pay my respects to certain Republican and Democratic senators who have the courage and temerity not to be bludgeoned into line."

In response, Senator Maurice P. Coakley (R) of Beloit said he was "very well pleased to see senators who two years ago ran to cover when the governor's secretary—Tommy Duncan—came around, now cracking the whip."

He added: "I presume we won't have to go to hear the governor's speech because the senator from the Eleventh (Nelson) has kindly told us what he was going to say."

Permit for Remodeling Of School Is Granted

The St. Mary church congregation has been issued a permit by the city building inspector to remodel the St. Mary school, 313 S. State street, at an estimated cost of $6,000.

A bill passed by both houses of the legislature recently would add the American blitter-sweet, turk's caps, and wood lilies to the list, and substitute the provision that the conservation commission be assured of a person's "scientific purpose" before they could be picked.

Commission officials said enforcement of the law, which would carry penalty provisions of a fine up to $100 and imprisonment of 30 days in the county jail, would probably be up to the various wardens.

"Life" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following passage from the Bible was read: "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And this is the promise that he hath promised us, even eternal life."

Permit for Remodeling Of School Is Granted

The St. Mary church congregation has been issued a permit by the city building inspector to remodel the St. Mary school, 313 S. State street, at an estimated cost of $6,000.

A bill passed by both houses of the legislature recently would add the American blitter-sweet, turk's caps, and wood lilies to the list, and substitute the provision that the conservation commission be assured of a person's "scientific purpose" before they could be picked.

Commission officials said enforcement of the law, which would carry penalty provisions of a fine up to $100 and imprisonment of 30 days in the county jail, would probably be up to the various wardens.

SAYS UNION MEN BEAT HIM UP
John T. Collins (center) said he was beaten near Draper, Ky., by five men he identified as union men after they had asked him to join the union. Here he is being examined for wounds by National Guardsmen, who are patrolling the "bloody Harlan" area in an effort to prevent bloodshed in the current labor strife.

Miniature Airplane Pilots to Display Their Crafts Sunday

Model airplane flying will receive its first official recognition from Appleton next Sunday when the YM.C.A. sponsors the first contest for miniature aircraft to be held in the city.

The construction and operation of model airplanes has long been a hobby of a certain clan of boys and men in the city, but up to now it's been pretty much a private recreation. Sunday's contest will bring all the enthusiasts together in one place and as much of the public as is interested is welcome to look on.

The contest will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Roosevelt school. C. C. Bailey, "Y" boys director, said today that entries will bring planes to the "Y" at 7:30 Friday night where they will be judged for workmanship.

Bob Bosser, Charles Hoepfner and Carl Roehl will be judges for the contest.

Bosser announced today the regulations covering the contest. There will be two divisions, one for boys up to 15 years of age and another for those 16 and over.

Following are the three types of models that may be entered:

1. Solid scale models of any type or size to be judged on workmanship.
2. Flying scale models of any type or size to be judged on workmanship and flying ability.
3. Endurance models to be judged on flying ability.

A builder may enter any or all of the three types.

Bill Would Augment Protected List of Flowers in Wisconsin

Madison—(P)—Wanderers through Wisconsin's luxuriant country side who are prone to pick flowers for decorative or other purposes will have to get written permission from the conservation commission before gathering up any of seven varieties listed in a bill awaiting executive approval.

Until now the state's protected list has included the American Lotus (a water plant) and the trailing arbutus, lady-slipper, orchid and trillium. The law simply required the assent of the property owner.

A bill passed by both houses of the legislature recently would add the American blitter-sweet, turk's caps, and wood lilies to the list, and substitute the provision that the conservation commission be assured of a person's "scientific purpose" before they could be picked.

Commission officials said enforcement of the law, which would carry penalty provisions of a fine up to $100 and imprisonment of 30 days in the county jail, would probably be up to the various wardens.

Ban on Married Workers Outlawed

Rules Burnette County Can't Exclude Husband
Or Wife From Job

Madison—(P)—Burnette county had no legal authority to adopt a resolution excluding from the county payroll a husband or wife whose spouse was gainfully employed according to an opinion given by Attorney General John E. Martin to District Attorney Clive J. Strang.

The resolution, which the board made effective July 1, was invalid because it interfered with equal rights under the constitution, Martin held.

It provided that no married man and wife be continued on the payroll at the same time and that no married person be employed where the other spouse had a gainful job.

Purpose of the resolution was to help meet a problem of unemployment in the county. Strang was of the opinion the board had authority to enforce the resolution under emergency conditions but that under ordinary conditions it would be a breach of constitutional rights. He asked Martin for advice.

According to Martin's opinion the bill of Assemblyman Maurice Fitzsimons (D) Fond du Lac, to accomplish in the state service substantially what Burnette county proposed to do, would have been illegal. The Fitzsimons bill, which the assembly killed, would have applied only in cases where joint income was $2,000 plus $400 for each dependent.

Martin said the county resolution was an arbitrary classification violating a constitutional provision that all persons have equal protection of the laws. He cited the decision of the Massachusetts supreme court holding unlawful six legislative bills aimed at restricting public employment of married women in that state.

New British Army Attitude May Lower Barrier Between Officers, Men in the Ranks

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York—(P)—England applied the yardstick of democracy to her army in a big way during the week-end with the inauguration of her first modern conscription camps for the training of young soldiers drawn from all walks of life.

With the idea of avoiding harsh military regimentation and thereby making compulsory training more palatable to a highly independent people, there was a relaxation of disciplinary procedure which must have appalled the professional soldier.

The regulations, at least at the outset, were more like those of a Boy Scouts' holiday camp than of a grim school to prepare lads for war.

The authorities even allowed fond mothers and fathers to come and see their offspring installed.

The real sign of a revolutionary change, however, came in an order that the recruits were (in effect) to be bandied with gloves. There was to be no rudeness, bullying or sarcasm.

Sergeant Major Curbed
Now that last applies in particular to England's famous sergeant major, and in order to understand just how great the upheaval is you must know what manner of man he is. He's the backbone of the army—the hardest-boiled, most-efficient soldier you could hope to meet in a year of Sundays.

He's the one on whose shoulders the officer in immediate command dumps his troubles with a condescending "carry on, sergeant major." And he's the chap who has bullied Tommy Atkins (he's the fellow in the ranks) into being the fighting machine he has been, for the sergeant major is the ring-master of the show.

Through endless generations of British armies he has been credited with typifying one of the world's finest soldiers. And he has been cursed roundly by Tommy Atkins (when the sergeant was out of hearing) as the most blankety-blank bleedin' blighter who ever lashed a man with tongue like a cat-o-nine-tails.

So the ample-waisted sergeant major has been the hall-mark of discipline in the ranks. That discipline has been rigid, though it has stopped short of the militarism in evidence in some continental armies.

French Also Soften
To make the sergeant major hold his horny hand in dealing with the recruits represents a startling turn-over in British procedure.

It is notable, too, that in recent days there has been reported a relaxation in the rigidity of the discipline and drill in the great French army, which is held to be one of the finest in existence.

How far the British intend to go in making things easier for the recruits isn't yet clear. One wonders whether it will have the effect of lowering the barriers a bit between officers and men, permitting more fraternizing. The line between the two was rather rigidly drawn in the past.

The inauguration of compulsory training also sees the beginning of another great change in English life. All ranks of society are being dumped into the great melting pot represented by the camps for training of recruits.

That can mean nothing else than a leveling off of the rather sticky class distinctions in England.

Roosevelt Could Drop Neutrality Bill for Present

Special Session Could be Called Following Western Trip

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—President Roosevelt is face to face with a decision not unlike that which President Wilson faced in 1919 when a hostile senate foreign relations committee refused to sanction a policy of international cooperation and insisted on "isolation."

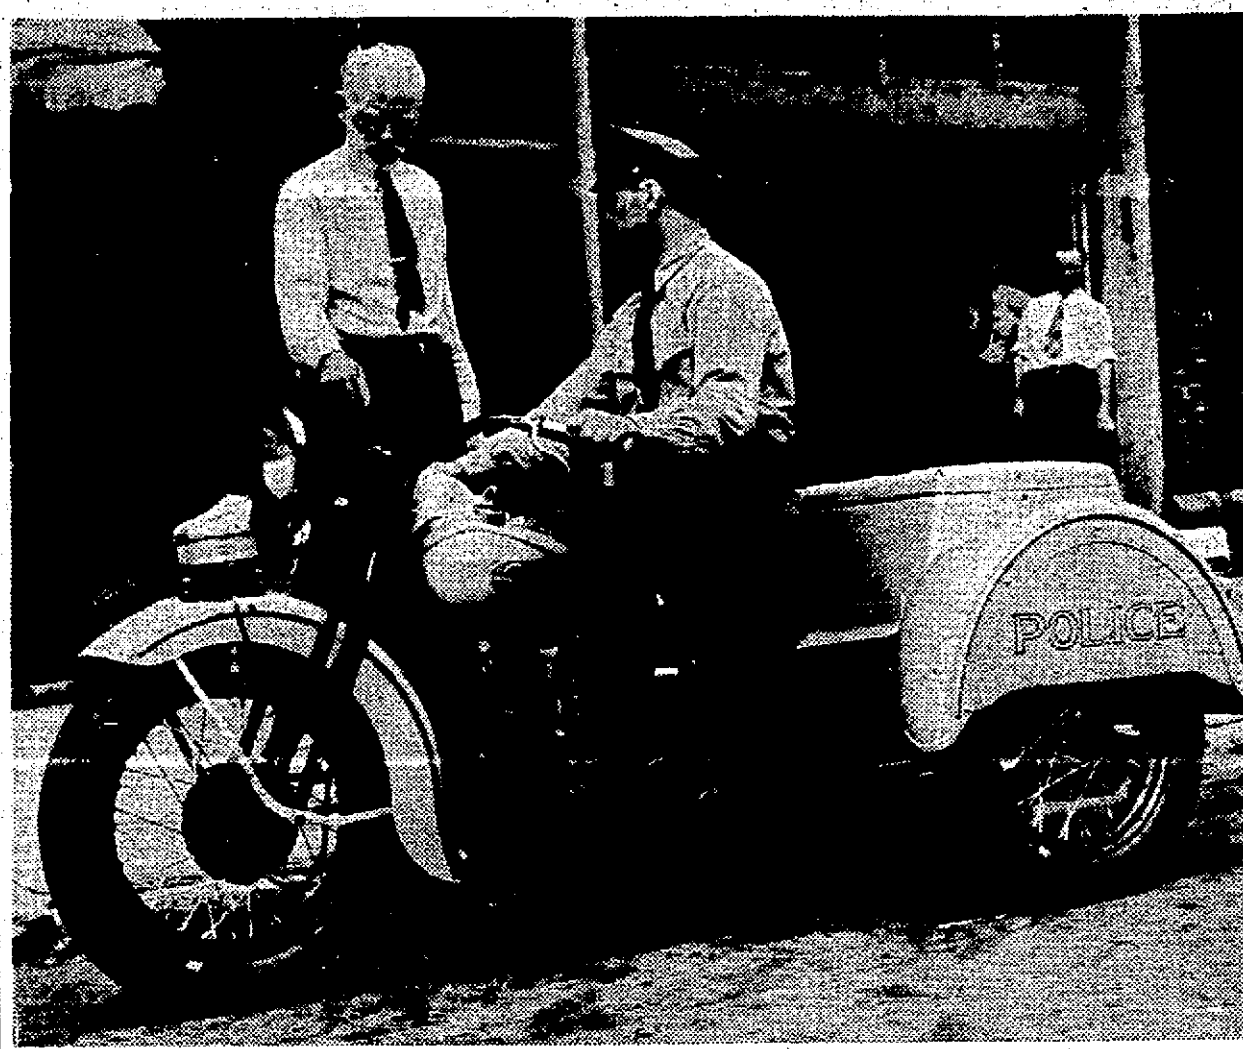

Lawrence

The decision relates to whether the president wishes to appeal to the country over the heads of the senators, or whether he will allow American policy to drift without action.

Today Mr. Roosevelt has at his side a different alignment of groups than did his predecessor. There is, for instance, Senator Norris of Nebraska, who not only filibustered against the arming of merchantmen in 1917, but voted against war. Mr. Norris has proclaimed his belief that the president is right in seeking to exercise for America rights of international law which would permit the United States to supply arms and ammunition to foreign countries in war time, provided they came to American shores in their own ships to get the supplies, and provided that American producers agreed in advance to put title to the property in foreign hands before the products left our ports.

The policy which the Nebraska senator advocates is that which the president and Secretary Hull want. Can it be construed as a program that will involve America in war? Mr. Norris thinks not. The administration thinks not.

League of Nations
Can the issue be dramatized into a war and peace controversy? It was so dramatized in 1919. The very league of nations which was organized to prevent war was hailed by the isolationist group as a probable breeder of wars. Senator Hiram

POLICE DEPARTMENT GETS NEW 3-WHEEL CYCLE

A 3-wheel motorcycle, designed especially for marking parked cars and purchased by the common council for the city police department, arrived this week. The machine cost $488. It will be put into service within a few days, according to Police Chief George T. Prim. The machine will save patrolmen the tedious job of walking along the street and bending to mark each car. Motorcycle Officer Clarence G. Hoppe is shown astride the machine with Chief Prim inspecting it. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Johnson of California was one of those who gave to the league controversy the twist that war would come out of the league's powers. It never did. Nor did it preserve peace, though proponents insist this would have been accomplished if America had joined. The California senator is today a leader of the isolationist bloc which insists that to sell arms and munitions in war time will involve America in war.

Mr. Wilson was by no means the campaigner that Mr. Roosevelt is. The radio was not then a factor in campaigning, and, if it had been, Mr. Wilson would not have been as effective as is Mr. Roosevelt, who is conceded, even by his opponents, to be a master of the art of simplicity in radio speech.

Isolationists
The isolationist senators followed Mr. Wilson around his tour in 1919, speaking in public meetings called immediately after he would visit certain cities on the trip. The reaction from the war time legislation of a restrictive sort aided the isolationists so that the league issue became symbolic of pro and anti-Wilson sentiment.

The so-called liberal groups fought the league, while conservatives in both the Republican and Democratic parties supported it. Today most liberals are on Mr. Roosevelt's side because the war issue itself has a liberal angle to it. The oppression of liberals by the totalitarian states, especially the crushing laws governing labor and the freedom of worship, have placed liberals strongly against the tyranny of fascism as well as communism.

It may be difficult, therefore, from the standpoint of lining up public sentiment for the isolationist group to fight against the many liberal elements which will be ranged behind the president. The controversy is really a needless one, because a repeal of the arms embargo would merely place the United States in a position in war time to exercise or refrain from exercising rights under international law, and, at best, the claims of each side that war would be brought on by

Counties Press Fight for More Aid From State

Push Amendment to Provide 50 Per Cent of Direct Relief Costs

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Although its prospects seemed poor, the Wisconsin County Boards association said today that it would press for adoption of an amendment to the Heil administration's tax bill which would provide at least 50 per cent of the direct relief costs of local governments during the next two years.

The association is demanding that the $6,000,000 biennial revenues from the cigarette tax in the tax bill, plus the $2,000,000 a year conceded by the Heil administration, be earmarked for direct relief aids to all one policy or another are insusceptible of proof.

Crusade for Democracy
But the question of whether one's sympathies are with the totalitarian powers or with the democracies is a live matter, and it will be easy for the speakers on behalf of the administration to develop a crusade for democracy in dramatic phrases. In other words, Mr. Roosevelt is being handed an opportunity to tour the country on a non-partisan, patriotic, international issue which can readily dwarf in importance the bickering on domestic problems and throw a smoke screen around the whole series of New Deal adventures in unbalanced budgets and social reform. The Republican minority in the senate which had a chance to focus attention on domestic questions in preparation for 1940 preferred to aid the isolationists, and Mr. Roosevelt now can, if he chooses, drop the neutrality bill at this session of congress, try it out on the country on his way west this summer, and in Hiram Johnson's state when visiting the San Francisco fair. The president can then make up his mind after surveying public sentiment whether he will call for an extra session in the autumn to continue to press congress for neutrality legislation.

counties on a 50 per cent basis, and that additional revenues be made available for especially distressed counties which cannot support even one half of their own load.

"This matter, so far as counties are concerned, is the most important issue remaining before the present session," A. J. Thelen, legislative representative of the association observed today.

The counties want a plan which will shift at least half of the direct relief cost from property taxes to some other tax source.

"Obviously inadequate"

The association pointed out that during the last year the state has been contributing only about 10 per cent of relief costs, which the local units called "obviously inadequate."

It was also pointed out that under the administration's plans such counties as Brown, Outagamie and others in the wealthier sections of the state would receive little from state relief funds. Under the association's plan, they would be reimbursed from the state treasury, to

Milwaukee Boy Hurt In Traffic Mishap

Waupaca—Little Kenneth Brannigan, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brannigan of Milwaukee, suffered cuts and bruises Sunday morning when he ran into the path of a car driven by Harlan Smith of Waupaca who was driving over the bridge of the Waupaca river at Rural. Mr. Smith had stopped his car to allow the extent of one half of their relief bills.

Direct relief costs are now aggregating more than $1,000,000 a month. Moreover, costs this year are heavier than in 1938, although the state participation remains the same.

"This situation has forced many counties to raise real estate taxes to the limit, and then to borrow to carry on. Borrowing to meet these relief costs really means doubling the eventual expenditure because of the interest charges involved," the association declared.

another to pass and was slowly starting across the bridge, a fact which probably saved the boy from more serious injury from the impact. Kenneth, who was visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Perkins, Milwaukee, who were camping on Miller lake, was throwing sticks into the river and running across the bridge to watch them float down the stream. As he turned suddenly he ran into the side of the Smith car. He was taken to the Waupaca hospital where a two-inch gash in his head was treated, as were his many skin burns and bruises about the face and hands. He will be confined to the hospital for several days.

$500,000 AT STAKE
St. Joseph, Mo. —(P)—Two St. Joseph bankers flipped a coin the other day with $500,000 at stake.

It was their way of deciding which bank would be the depositor for $500,000 worth of Buchanan County funds for the fiscal year.

So the winner didn't get to keep the money.

Assessors Will Hold Open House

Menasha Tax Roll Will be Opened to Property Owners Aug. 7

Menasha—"Open house" is being held by Menasha's two assessors, Robert M. Heckner and Joseph H. Stommel, for the week of Aug. 7. At that time property owners may confer with the assessors at the Menasha city office on the tentative assessments placed on their properties.

The field work in preparing the 1939 assessment rolls has been completed by the two men and they now have started on the book work and tabulation of the personal property estimates filled in by the taxpayers. Mr. Stommel and Mr. Heckner started the book work on Monday.

The board of review is scheduled to resume its hearings on Monday, Aug. 14. The board held its first meeting on July 2 and then adjourned to await the assessors' work. Members of the board of review are the two assessors, Mayor W. H. Jensen, City Clerk Walter J. Dougherty and Otto Klepfel. Mr. Klepfel was appointed by the mayor to act on the board.

Mr. Heckner explained that the assessments will be tentative until they are submitted to the board of review. Numerous changes have been made in the 1939 assessments and the two men will hold "open house" so that property owners can inquire about the assessments.

Adjustments can be made if the property owners feel that the assessments are unfair if they appear at the "open house." However, if the assessors and the property owner cannot reach an agreement, the property owner still can appeal to the board of review when it resumes its hearings.

The "open house" plan was initiated last year by the assessors. Hours will be announced later.

VOTING RIGHTS OF RELIEFERS

That one so well informed as General Harbord should suggest that persons receiving public relief be denied the privilege of voting even with a disclaimer of any purpose to reflect upon "worthy individuals whom misfortune beyond their control has brought to actual need," is rather astonishing.

The general said that those on relief should surrender their voting privileges because their exercise of them "is too much like a judge sitting in an action in which he has a financial interest."

It might be a full answer to the general's suggestion to remind him that if his idea were carried out in every direction few, if any, could vote.

Farmers couldn't vote since they want a tariff on farm products. Workers couldn't vote since they want excluded from the country competitive articles to those they manufacture and which are made by men who do not live under our standards. Candidates for office of course couldn't vote in fear they might vote for themselves. Anyone expecting a public appointment couldn't vote either. Veterans who sometimes ask for a bonus or a pension would have to stay at home. And so you might go through the list until no one was left but wilful idlers.

There was a time in America when those on poor relief were prevented from voting. That cruel humiliation in our laws was corrected when the people came to see how partial and unjust it was.

We must face the fact that minority groups will always be with us. Unless they may remain articulate and carry as much weight as their numbers justify they will, in the face of other vocal and pushing pressure groups, receive but the scantiest of attention.

The soul-saving grace of a democracy is in understanding upon the part of all that due attention must be given to the claims of each part. In a time like this when special-interest legislation is the main order of the day we have the excellent opportunity to learn that government by special interest alone, with all its pulling and hauling, trading and log-rolling, is turning out to be anything but what was expected or desired.

If the voting privilege were to be denied any particular pressure group that denial certainly should not start with those whose lot is the most unpleasant among us.

HERE IS SOMETHING TO TAX

Mr. Schlytter, Wittenberg's contribution to statesmanship at Madison, has asked the legislature to tax bachelors in order to make up the fading state bank roll.

Such a tax, along with state lotteries, generally points to the decaying process in government and indicates that the people in their despair and confusion are ready to embrace any absurdity to cover over their previous dampfoolishness.

But it is unfair to criticize unless a substitute is offered. Forgetting for the time that Mr. Schlytter's party agreed to cut state expenses in substantial manner, we offer a brand new tax that would not only help the treasury but improve the morals and character of the government.

We propose a sizable tax on all political promises; and a larger tax on every political speech. The collection of the first tax would accompany the filing of the political platforms that parties make in pursuance to law after the people have selected candidates at the primaries.

These platforms now are a grinning, yellow-toothed joke. Men don't make jokes out of what they have to pay for.

Our political campaigns have become a welter of banter, bilge water, bellyache and baloney designed to arouse the young and inexperienced who do not understand the farce, and their elders who are so short of memory they have forgotten the last one.

Not only would such taxes provide some essential funds but they would tend to banish those barnstorming shows entitled "How to Hoodwink the Voters."

"DISTANCE LENDS ENCHANTMENT"

Our government is making a most pronounced protest to Japan because in the process called the "China Incident" some of our people have been constantly endangered.

America will not tolerate any danger to its people—not by Japan anyway.

Altogether we have in China, outside of Shanghai, about 3,000 Americans. It is the noble duty of our president to extend our great constitution, which we crack here at home, and also wave our flag over them.

Never mind the cost. A principle is at stake. And when such a great principle is involved what matters the cost?

It was through and by reason of this magnificent principle and the brave manner in which the President enforced it that we prevented some 10,000 Americans down in Mexico from having their shirts stripped off and being booted around the alleys.

Remember?

MISHCOTT AND VALLEY FORGE

Joseph Lemberger, the Mishcotti farmer ordered to court for selling milk at his farm in alleged violation of "the peace and dignity of the State of Wisconsin"—think of that allegation!—added an extra touch to his plea with the firm words that he would "continue to perform the lawful act of producing and the lawful act of selling milk."

That tends to focus attention upon the issue. Is producing milk lawful? Is selling milk lawful? And if these things be lawful for whom are they lawful? Can they be lawful for some and unlawful for others?

If Mr. Lemberger still has the right in this benighted land to own a cow which produces milk it appears to be the claim, nevertheless, that he is far from free in respect to the disposal of the product. If unable to consume it himself, it may be argued he can still throw it away. If he can be restrained, however, from either treating or disposing of it as he pleases why at the same time may he not be denied the right of producing it at all? If it be lawful to say that he may be prevented from offering it for sale certainly it is just as lawful to prohibit him from even using his farm.

If a Wisconsin peasant, as our farmers have become under the new and brighter order of things, may be denied or permitted certain markets, he certainly may be denied or permitted the privilege of raising certain products. Numerous other propositions occur in respect to the shackles that have been forged to interfere with the normal and ordinary strides men have been accustomed to take in America since the Revolution struck royalty and aristocracy from their burden in life, that is those men who arose before the break of dawn and undertook the once glorious but now shady task of attempting to improve their condition and that of their children by the creation of wealth.

We suppose Mr. Lemberger has had the usual view of constitutional rights we have all been taught from the cradle, not the legalistic view but that even sounder view which is in the very marrow of our bones. And if he cannot understand the New Order or appears bewildered at the obstructions placed against his humble efforts to be an American citizen in the sense of bygone days we may at least inform him that there are millions more just as bewildered as he, and that all the game-of-chess reasoning and the sweet "explanations" that are advanced to sustain the great clay piece of statuary, instead of convincing, leave those people strangely cold and numb.

These embattled farmers, like their prototypes at Bunker Hill, are fighting for a great, sound American principle, it seems to us, just as priceless as the one for which men fired the shot heard 'round the world. It is merely another phase of 1776. It involves a myriad of results that may be styled under the broad questions: Shall the Wisconsin farmer resist becoming a peasant? Shall politics, votes, promises, influence, double-dealing, log-rolling, bribery and corruption shape his life? Shall he be under the thumb of some village satrap, some local tyrant, who shall tell him what he shall plant, where he shall plant it, when he shall sell it and for how much?

Shorn of the disguise under which tyranny always appears Mr. Lemberger's contest appears clearly as one for human liberty, the basic right of a man to trade or sell that thing which his toil, brains, plans and property have produced in the manner that satisfies his wishes, needs or circumstances.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

TO A CHERUB

Will you grow up to be a boy
Attired in whistling corduroy?
Will you be one of those who runs
And hollers and shoots BB guns?
Will you climb trees and tear your shirt,
And ride a wild horse and get hurt?
Will you pitch baseballs? Will you smash
My neighbors' windows? Young and rash,
Will you go speeding all about,
Singing, and with the muffler out?
You will, my cherub, one-year old,
And so before that tale is told,
I'll hold you close with the delight
I feel for baby boys tonight,
Knowing whatever age you are,
My love will travel just that far!

EATING ALOFT
The flying boat Guba recently left Sydney on a survey flight for the Australian government to Mombasa in Kenya Colony, Africa. A report on its progress includes the detail that during the flight to Port Hedland, where the Guba was refueled, the cold was so intense that when Captain Russell Rogers, the pilot, tried to eat ice cream for breakfast it was frozen so hard he had to thaw it on a stove. High altitudes play queer tricks with food, as Brigadier-General Vladimir Kokkinaki also discovered.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—A fine lady drove up to the curb in front of a Fifth Avenue department store a few days ago, looked furtively around to see if any policemen were going to object to her parking her car there, shut off the motor and walked quickly into the store. A few minutes later, her shopping done, she emerged. To her dismay, a policeman had one foot on the running board of her car and was about to write something down in his book.

The lady, sure she was to get a ticket for parking, advanced timidly. Before she reached the curb, however, the officer rushed away to direct traffic. Sighing with relief, the fine lady slid into the seat, started the motor and pulled slowly away from the curb, sneaky-like. She had gone about half a block down Fifth Avenue when she heard a tooting of horns behind her, and a taxicab pulled alongside. The driver leaned out and shouted: "I think the cop wants you, lady."

The frightened lady braked to a halt. In a moment the policeman came running up. "If it wouldn't be too much trouble, Madam," he said, politely, "could I have my horse?"

Not until then did the fine lady realize that that was a mounted policeman who had merely used her rear bumper as a hitching post.

They gave a reception the other day for Graham McNamee commemorating some milestone or other in his career as a radio announcer. The invitations stated that the reception would start at 4 p.m., the place being the 67th floor of the R.C.A. building.

Promptly at 4 p.m. a distinguished gentleman appeared at the appointed place. Not a soul was there; not even Mr. McNamee or his NBC-RCA hosts. The distinguished gentleman waited ten minutes and still no one showed up, whereupon he departed and was seen there no more.

The guest who believed 4 p.m. actually meant 4 p.m. was Major-General James G. Harbord—chairman of the Board of R.C.A.

Mr. George Sutton, who is sort of an off-and-on reporter of Connecticut happenings for me, comes up today with the quaint tale of Mr. Eng Foon, the Chinese laundryman of Darien, Conn. Mr. Sutton dropped into Eng's establishment last week to retrieve some articles he had left for washing, and observed that Eng had installed a metronome on a shelf behind the counter—a metronome that was beating time at about an allegro pace.

"What ho," said Mr. Sutton, a dear fellow to whom all life is constantly gay, "what have you there, Eng? A metronome, I wot. But why? Are you a musician?"

The Chinese grinned happily. "It is tick-tock," said he. "Velly plitty tick-tock. Alla timey tick-tock. Man has store down the street—old store, sell funny things; secondhand store you call it? Yes. I buy this box because it go tick-tock velly plitty. I put him on shelf, so when it make tick-tock I keep up with him, and iron much faster, and my men they iron much faster. Velly cute, Mr. Sutton. Yes?"

Mr. Sutton said yes, it is velly cute; and I say also it is velly cute; and that is all for you for today, Mr. Foon.

Tony Soma is the only New York saloonkeeper who stands on his head and sings grand opera. There are dozens of "Tony's" in town, but it has always been Tony Soma's "Tony's" on West 52nd Street—in that Babylon of Brass between Fifth and Sixth Avenues—which Broadway folk talk of when anyone said: "Meet-cha at Tony's."

From one of the best known of Prohibition's speakies, Tony's has swung into the Repeal picture without much trouble. I often suspect Tony looks upon Repeal as just a fad, and one of these days people will get wise to themselves and return to Prohibition, a state of things that permits ladies and gents to drink quietly, without interruption from the hol-pollit.

Tony is a deep student of Yogi which explains his standing on his head to sing arias. His wife and small son also are students of Yogi. Recently there came to their home another little bundle from the stork. Show folk, film stars and newspapermen who frequent Tony's are now betting not on how soon the new baby will walk or talk, but how soon he will stand on his head and sing grand opera.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, July 16, 1929

Stanley A. Staidl, Outagamie county district attorney, and Miss Catherine T. Tepp, Stevens Point, were to be married Saturday morning at Mackville by the Rev. G. A. Schommer.

Women who were having their portraits painted that summer, and some of those being photographed, were not wearing their backless gowns or abbreviated skirts for fear the likenesses would be "dated." It was certain that fashions would change and the pictures out-moded.

25 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, July 21, 1914

Theda Clark Memorial hospital, Neenah, had been equipped with a lung motor, a new device to revive people overcome by gas, poisoning, drowning, collapse or electrical shocks.

A big warehouse of the Valley Lumber and Fuel company of Kaukauna was destroyed by fire the previous evening.

The laying of brick on the new Lake street concrete was to begin soon, according to Mayor Knuppel. Brick was to be relayed on Appleton street.

The annual Congressional excursion was scheduled for the following day. The boats, the Leander Choate and the Thistle, had been engaged and were to leave the government dock about 8:30 in the morning for Oshkosh.

ered on his flight from Moscow to Canada, where he made a forced landing. After explaining to reporters that he flew at elevations of from 17,000 to 29,500 feet to obtain best weather conditions, he added:

"A food that is pleasantly sweet at sea level is unbearably sweet at high altitudes. The chocolate we had in vacuum bottles and the candy we took seemed too sweet to eat. Although we had plenty of food, we were hungry throughout the flight. We had plenty of chicken, but it froze so hard up there that we couldn't cut it with a knife or a hatchet. Apples were frozen so solid they were like stones."

Guests who partook of a "typical airplane meal" at a New York city hotel were told of the difficulties faced by the commissary in providing the 500,000 meals served last year to passengers on United Air Lines planes. They learned that at 5,000 feet it takes six minutes to boil a three-minute egg; that hot coffee placed in a thermos bottle for an airplane lunch is likely to expand rapidly and blow out the cork; that milk had better be drunk quickly because it curdles almost instantaneously; that within a few minutes freshly baked rolls become dry as a bone, and that inferior fruits and vegetables undergo sad changes in the high altitudes of airplane travel. Many of these things had been made known by the records of mountain climbers, and progress has been made in overcoming the difficulties of providing food. The passengers in the Atlantic Clipper are not subjected to the discomforts their predecessors in air travel knew. A la carte service is now available on planes, and individual orders can be filled if the roast beef rare or minute steak medium is ordered when the seat reservation is made. And the bark of the hot dog is heard high above the earth—New York Sun.

A Bystander In Washington

BY LOUIS JOHNSON
Assistant Secretary Of War
(Pinch-hitting for Frances Grever, on vacation.)

Washington—Practically every day since Munich, in Washington and in every part of the country that I have visited, I have been asked these questions by newspaper men:

"What is the state of our air defenses?"
"How do we compare with Germany?"

Since newspaper reporters reflect most accurately the state of the public mind, I presume all of America seeks the answers to these two questions.

I am happy to state that our defenses on land, on sea and in the air have been strengthened and improved. In the air, especially, we have made significant progress.

In the year ending July 1, we received from the industry approximately 700 airplanes which, type for type, could be matched against the best produced in the same period of world. During the same period we allotted new contracts for more than 800 planes which are in advance of many of the world's present outstanding models.

When Congress fully appropriates the money necessary to give us an air armada of 5,500 to 6,000 planes, we will be on the road toward achieving adequate national defense in the air for America.

Planes And The Men

By adequacy we mean not only planes but skilled operators to fly them, trained combat crews to man them, experienced mechanics to maintain them, efficient equipment to protect them, ample bases to support them, men of outstanding leadership to command them—all fundamental assets of a well-balanced air force in sufficient quantity and quality to defend the western hemisphere against aggression today.

I emphasize the word "today" because no one can foretell what may be the developments of tomorrow. Adequacy is a relative term. What may be enough to protect us when the present program is realized, at some future date may prove wholly insufficient. We, in America, do not have the privilege of the last word on the subject of our military needs. We must keep pace with world conditions and armament developments.

The menacing weapon of today is the long-range bombardment airplane. As Mr. McNamara has said, it is the use of this weapon that has changed the whole picture of Europe. Today its potential power continues to dominate military policies across the ocean. It is our duty to prevent its use or the threat of its employment as a factor in the life of America.

Some may feel that a successful attack against this hemisphere from the air, and particularly against continental United States, is too fantastic to be worthy of serious consideration. May I warn these skeptics that aviation is improving far too rapidly for anyone to predict any limitations upon its potential powers?

Consider merely the revolution in speed. Not so long ago, we were hoping to approach 250 miles an hour and the day is approaching when we may have speeds of 500 to 600.

We'll Defend The West

In planning our air program we are not trying to match the forces of Germany or of any other nation. We are planning a system that adequately will defend America and its geographical frontiers. We have taken fully into consideration our coast, our manpower, our industrial resources and other assets of national defense.

We are trying to develop a protective armor that will fit the American body and nothing more. What other nations feel they need for their military programs may not suit us at all. What we have in mind to protect us may not fit them. We are committed to the defense of the western hemisphere and that objective we intend to accomplish with planes of design, speed and endurance that will most effectively serve our purposes.

When it comes to national defense the American people, regardless of political parties, stand firmly united. Responsible leaders in Congress, Republicans and Democrats, work as one. The President's program for air defense has merited the confidence it enjoys. An America united for national defense is our strongest bulwark for peace.

SEEDS OF REBELLION

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—If the readers of the state capital dispatches during the last month of discussion over the new state tax program have been somewhat confused by the contradictory developments, they can be excused. Persons on the scene of operations—whose business it is to know what is going on, have been running around in circles trying to understand too.

Some phases of the administration's revenue policy have yet to be explained. Consider the question of diversion of highway funds, than which there has been no bigger controversy this session.

Last fall Heil opposed diversion. Early in his term he opposed diversion, severely scored his predecessors for illegally using highway revenues. Then, suddenly, an administration tax bill appears which contains a provision for diversion of a huge slice of highway funds. Then it is withdrawn in a caucus vote; beaten next morning on the floor by the unnatural record vote of 91 to 1, despite private explanations by administration leaders only a few hours before that Heil had deliberately sent out other tax "feelers" in order to pave the way for public acceptance of the use of highway receipts.

It is all very puzzling, even to Republican legislators who ought to know.

This ought to be remembered by those who are interested in the highway fund issue: there is no practical prohibition of the Heil administration's "borrowing" of highway funds during its term, if it becomes necessary. A highway fund is now constituted, the Republicans can use highway receipts to make up treasury deficiencies in the same way the Progressives did, if they have a mind to.

Certainty of Senator Duell's appointment to the insurance commissioner's job after the legislature adjourns was betrayed by his brother or senators in the voice vote which crowned the Catlin resolution the other day. Catlin, quoting the Republican platform of 1938, got assembly approval of a declaration opposing Heil's appointment of legislators to office during the terms for which they were elected.

Said one senator in explanation to a friend afterward: "It was awkward, but we didn't want to embarrass Duell."

BOLENS WORDLESS
That dauntless master of invective, Harry Bolens of Port Washington, is seldom caught short in debate with his Progressive arch-foes. Usually quiet Allan Busby of West Allis the other day silenced the 76 year old battler, however, with a quotation from William Pitt the younger, who managed to become prime minister of England at 24:

Quoted Busby from a Pitt speech: "The terrible crime of being a young man with which the gentleman with such spirit and decency has charged me, I shall neither attempt to palliate nor deny, but shall content myself with hoping that I may be one of those whose wisdom increases with the years, and not one of those who are ignorant in spite of experience."

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

ONE TOOTH MISSING
The old adage that a man digs his grave with his teeth implies the man has teeth to dig with; when you stop to consider it doesn't add up, does it? I think there is more truth in the modern view that the character of the everyday diet determines the condition of the teeth, so that one fortunate or intelligent enough to preserve "his teeth in good functional condition, (for chewing natural food) stands the best chance of attaining longevity.

If you're really thinking about it now, you are bound to conjecture whether the good nutrition or the well preserved teeth come first—it is something like the famous chicken or egg controversy. Speculate all you like about that, but don't get silly about it. Somewhere around the circle waits the dentist, who is the indispensable factor in any scheme of developing and preserving good teeth.

So I repeat it is fair to say that "every tooth lost by disease, accident or design subtracts a year or two from the individual's life expectancy, unless its function is carried on by a single denture. A denture is an artificial device which installs to take the place of or give the appearance of the tooth or teeth missing.

One brilliant correspondent, apparently inspired by Ethyl Hydrate, seized on this estimate as an example of the utter imbecility of all of my teachings. Hadn't his grandfather had all of his teeth extracted at the age of 40 and never worn a denture thruout the rest of his long life? He would be satisfied to equal his grandfather's prowess, for grandfather gummied it well into his eighties.

Another correspondent reacts in a different way. She says one of her front teeth was extracted years ago because some dentist or doctor pronounced it a "dead" tooth (that is, a pulpless one) and feared it might some day become infected and cause trouble. The rest of her teeth were in excellent condition, so she had prowlled along furtively trying to conceal her endentulous estate all these years, for she hated to have the teeth on either side of the vacant space capped or crowned to support a bridge. However, she finds life pretty pleasant, and she doesn't relish the thought of missing a year or two of it, so she paid her dentist a visit, who proposes to install an artificial tooth supported with a crown on one or both adjacent teeth.

A recent development of American dentistry—always the finest in the world—is the peg tooth. An artificial tooth perhaps with porcelain-jack-crown, is timented to a peg or base of the alloy vitallium which is screwed into the jawbone where it is retained as tightly and comfortably as you please.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Protein
Is the protein of meat better for building health and strength, or for growth, than the protein of milk or cheese? (C. R.)
Answer: Not one whit.

Foot Itch
Please send me or print any information you may have concerning a kind of foot itch which my boys, aged eight and eleven, suffer from. Have tried many things without result. (C. D.)

Answer—Perhaps the boys become reinfected from wearing their own shoes or walking barefoot—their shoes, he smiled appreciatively as Busby read the report.

(Busby was formerly the principal of Little Chute high school; since his retirement from that job has been prominent in Milwaukee county Progressive politics).

And the backlash from lady drinkers, such as de luxe decorations and special music. The old-time saloon didn't have any cocktail lounge. And a man who wanted to get close enough to the bar to ask the bartender about the baseball scores didn't have to fight his way through the women customers.

Not that I'm alarmed about those young folks. They take care of themselves. I think the governor just couldn't understand all that busy, effervescent charm and laughter of young folks. Thought it couldn't be natural.

Actions are Result of Fatal Traffic Accident
A Year Ago

Three suits seeking damages totaling $47,779.50 opened yesterday before a jury in circuit court of Judge Edgar V. Werner. The suits are a result of a traffic accident in the town of Black Creek last August in which Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wagner, owner of Black Creek, and two of their children were killed and two other Wagner children were injured in a collision involving a truck owned by the R. M. Murphy Construction company.

Anna Puls as administratrix for the estate of Harry Wagner is the plaintiff in one action for $25,000 against the Murphy Construction company and the Lumberman's Casualty company. Elmer Defferding as administrator for the estate of Mrs. Wagner is the plaintiff in a second action for $12,500. In the third action $10,224.50 is asked for Vincent Wagner, a surviving son, and $55 for Norman Wagner, another surviving son, who also were allegedly injured in the accident. The construction and insurance companies also are the defendants in the two latter actions.

The jury trial began yesterday afternoon with the scene of the accident, a towed road crossing near the Felton Cheese factory.

Gas Model Kit Will Be Grand Prize for Model Plane Contest

The grand prize in Appleton's first annual model plane contest will be a gas model kit, C. C. Bailey, "Y" boys director, announced today.

The contest will be held Sunday afternoon at Roosevelt field. Entries will bring their models to the Y. M. C. A., sponsor of the contest, Friday evening for judging on workmanship.

The contest will be run in two groups, the first for boys up to 15 years of age and the second for those over 15. There will be three classes of competition in each group, with two prizes in each class.

Inclement weather will cause postponement to the following Sunday, Bailey said.

Precipitation yesterday amounted to .03 of an inch. Maximum and minimum temperatures recorded in the nation yesterday were at Phoenix, Ariz., with 105 degrees and Yellowstone with 44 degrees, according to the Associated Press.

Downey Reveals Plan
To Organize Pension
Groups Via Air Waves

Washington — (AP) — With pennies provided by Townsend clubs, Senator Downey (D-Calif.) announced plans today for a radio campaign starting in September to make old-age pension groups an influential factor in the 1940 election.

The campaign will begin with broadcasts from Cleveland designed to reach listeners in Ohio and Indiana, and will be extended gradually until by Jan. 1 it becomes nationwide.

"Our objective," said Downey, "will be to build up a militant, mobilized bloc of 20,000,000 voters. We intend to be active right up to the elections."

At their recent Indianapolis convention, Townsends pledged a million dollars to the drive. Members were to contribute a penny a day to raise the sum.

Downey said the Townsends would try to force selection of pension-minded candidates for the presidency by both Republicans and Democrats in 1940, as well as to influence election of congressional candidates pledged to support the Townsend plan for old-age pensions up to $200 monthly. He declared he had no presidential ambitions of his own.

Plant Buys Blower to Solve Smoke Problem

John Pierre, city building inspector, said today that the Western Condensing company, 935 E. John street, is taking "suitable steps" to eliminate what residents of that neighborhood have termed a smoke nuisance.

The company has purchased a large blower and will have it installed within the next day or two, Pierre said. A group of residents complained several weeks ago that smoke from the plant was annoying.

'Rescuing' a Fawn or Cub May Give You No End of Trouble

Madison — This is the story of Minnie, a mother, and Walter, a conservation department says it is attempting to point no moral other than that it is good common sense to leave bear and deer babies in the woods wherever they may be found. Also there is a law against well-meaning but ill-advised wildlife kidnapping.

The experimental game and fur farm, Poyette, has pens of cubs and fawns doomed to spend the rest of their lives in some zoo because people picked them up, believing they were lost.

Minnie's case is somewhat different in that human attention was necessary and while the state can put up with Minnie's eccentricities it would be a decided nuisance to have a woods full of Minnies.

Nine years ago last spring, Warden Bert Nixon of Florence came upon the remains of a deer near the Michigan line. Its hind quarters had been removed by a spring hunter, and close to the remaining carcass, lay a very much weakened fawn. Nixon took the fawn out of the brush in a pack sack and took it to the warden headquarters, north of Argonne, where Charley Otto was in charge.

Despite all the handicaps of raising a sick fawn, Minnie survived. All these years the doe has remained about the cabin of Walter Sebastian, a caretaker Minnie has learned the comforts of civilization, steals everything that may be edible, and during hot weather when the flies are bad, she goes into Walter's cabin and lies on his bed, her head on the pillow.

Free to come and go as she pleases, Minnie started a family with a fawn in the third spring after her rescue. This fawn, named Guy, now a giant white tail, still haunts the cabin area.

The next year came two fawns and then came two more fawns each year until the eighth spring when there were no new offspring and Minnie kept the two fawns born the year before with her. The doe went traveling for a number of days only to return permanently to the cabin where she gave birth to three fawns June 2.

It would be highly satisfactory to the Argonne ward headquarters if Minnie should decide to become a wild animal but after nine years the men have lost hope.

Farmers Won't be Much Better
Off Despite Record U. S. Aid

Chicago — (AP) — Even though Uncle Sam has appropriated more money to be spent in the interest of hard-riden farmers than ever before—$1,194,488,638 — it isn't likely Joe Farmer will be able to pay off the mortgage in 1940 with money received from complying with the AAA program.

Nor does it appear likely farmers generally will receive larger benefit checks for complying with the program in 1940 than in 1939, since funds earmarked for soil conservation, acreage allotment, compliance and parity payments total only $86,100,000 more than the 1939 appropriation. The 1940 total appropriated for benefit payments is $772,600,000, compared with $766,900,000 in 1939.

Farm leaders said today the $6,100,000 additional fund would be more than eaten up by payments going to farmers complying with the program for the first time.

Loan Features

Greatest hope for increased farm income in 1940, agricultural leaders said, rests with farmers taking advantage of the loan features of the program — withholding products from market under government loan and seal — and the use by department of agriculture officials of an estimated $205,700,000 fund for disposal of surpluses, both at home and abroad. Available for this purpose in 1939 was $79,000,000. This total available for benefit payments and surplus disposal for 1940 is $978,300,000 compared with $844,500,000 in 1939.

The balance of the appropriation, $216,188,638, was made available for research, regulatory work, road-building activities of the department and other functions.

CROWD TRIES TO STOP WEDDING

Carmelo Locapra, 60, and his 16-year-old bride, the former Torsilla Minichelli, snarled in their New York home despite the many troubles that followed their May-December marriage. Police and firemen were called to check a crowd that tried to break up their wedding. And their wedding breakfast was interrupted by a stone thrown through a window.

Nazi Leaders at Danzig in Meeting to Discuss Steps
For Reunion With Germany

By the Associated Press

A pair of chronic trouble spots on opposite sides of the world caused new concern today.

The free city of Danzig was watched closely as leaders of the nazified Danzig government met to discuss the next steps to bring about reunion with Germany. The meeting was called just a few hours after Nazi leader Albert Forster returned from long talks with Adolf Hitler.

In Berlin a government spokesman said that German officials believed the Danzig question was "steering in the direction of a peaceful solution." He added "we are very optimistic," but he did not deny the suggestion that "solution" could mean only incorporation of Danzig in Germany—Hitler's stated program.

In Tokio five key cabinet ministers met in emergency session to study a full report of recent soviet air raids on strategic rail centers in Japanese-protected Manchoukuo.

New Land Fighting

The Japanese government, already taking a grave view of the situation, was asked by the Manchoukuo government to protest directly to Moscow over the raids. Meanwhile land fighting along the disputed border between Outer Mongolia, under Russia's protection, and Manchoukuo, Japanese-protected, flared anew in the vicinity of Lake Biar.

Observers of the Danzig situation expressed concern over movement of 40 military supply trucks seen proceeding along a highway leading into Danzig from East Prussia, driven by men in uniform. Neither the destination of the trucks nor the nature of their cargo was known.

The Danzig issue, particularly the truck movement, disturbed an otherwise calm atmosphere in London. The British, now taking the view that their preparedness measures have reached a "satisfactory state," looked at the immediate future with steeper nerves. The Daily Express predicted "there will be no European war involving Britain this year."

Confab at Warsaw

Britain's preparedness program moved ahead as her inspector-general of overseas forces, Major-General Sir Edmund Ironside, began in Warsaw the task of coordinating Polish and British military strength.

In troubled China, Japanese naval authorities announced they would close three more South China ports—Sanauo, Luyuan and Shacheng—Friday. Neutral ships and nationals were given the customary request that they leave—requests which the United States and Britain have rejected in the past.

In Shanghai the Chinese dollar slumped sharply, bringing business virtually to a standstill, following withdrawal of exchange stabilization fund support. The Chinese dollar fell from 12 1/2 to 11 1/2 United States cents, its value of yesterday, to 10 1/2 cents at today's close.

'Skim Milks' Might
Meet City Fathers
On Diamond Friday

The "crosstul" game between the city officials and the "Skim Milks", hastily formed junior varsity, may be played Friday.

At an informal conference in the office of Carl Becher, city clerk, representatives of both squads yesterday talked over dates for the encounter and Friday was suggested.

The roster of the "Skim Milks", dubbed so because "we're what's left when the regulars take the field" is being tallied. Yesterday Ray LeVay came in while the boys were talking it over and went out a shortstop.

The Friday date may be changed, which is all right too because it will mean another newspaper story and more publicity for the little-known "Skims." The city officials—the "Creams" by comparison—have been getting it all.

Traveling Indian
Models Figures in
Clay at Jones Park

Riley Bressette, a Chippewa Indian who learned sculpturing with clay and mud after leaving his job through the depression, has been playing his art in the Jones park ravine the last few days and has made a rather remarkable figure of Christ crucified on the cross.

The life-sized figure in clay taken from the ravine was fashioned on the ground with a clump of bushes for a background. Bressette gave much attention to detail and tear drops and drops of blood, all in clay, may be seen. Included in his display are figures of an angel with a lamb and a weeping person. Bressette makes more or less of a living through donations from interested spectators who may see him at work. He says during the next few days he will add more figures to the display, among them the Virgin Mary and Mary Magdalen. He also plans to show Christ falling under his cross while on his march to his death.

ing good government. I am confident that you will continue to make good headway in that direction. Several of our enactments already have produced very gratifying results.

Rome was not built in a day nor can all the mistakes and inequalities of years gone by be torn down and rebuilt in a few months' time. I submitted a budget to you covering the estimated cost of state government for the two years ending June 30, 1941, amounting to $69,750,000. It was the judgment of this legislature to raise that estimate to a total of $83,363,000—an increase of $1,613,000. Had this legislature not defeated a number of undesirable amendments the budget would now be well over $100,000,000.

Your appropriations for state government functions, namely legislative, executive, judicial and administrative boards, commissions and departments are $1,304,000 less than actual expenditures by the last administration.

Other Reductions

Our appropriations for state institutions, namely our prisons, reformatories, mental hospitals and tuberculosis sanatoriums, are $809,000 less than actual expenditures by the last administration.

Our appropriations for state institutions of higher learning, namely the university, normal schools, Stout institute, and mining school are $1,283,000 less than actual expenditures by the last administration.

But—our appropriations for charitable and educational aids, namely old age assistance, dependent children, the blind and deaf, and schools are $4,125,000 greater than was actually expended for the same purposes by the last administration. Had we not seen fit to increase appropriations for these very worthy purposes, our total appropriations would be $3,195,000 less than actual expenditures for all state purposes by the last administration.

Pension Costs Up

Our appropriations for old age pensions, dependent children, the blind and relief, and aids to schools are $10,745,000 greater than was actually expended for the same purposes by the 1935-1937 administration, and $21,424,000 greater than was actually expended for such purposes by the 1933-1935 administration.

I point out that our appropriations to help the communities in our state maintain and operate their schools and provide for their needy appropriations for state government, charitable and penal institutions and institutions of higher learning amounted to only $31,480,000.

To the $83,363,000 recommended by this legislature there was added $2,000,000 for relief and $1,000,000 for Bang's disease eradication.

We must therefore provide a total fund of $72,963,000.

The budget bureau informs me that the usual sources of state revenue, namely income, inheritance, insurance, railroad, utility and miscellaneous taxes and departmental earnings will produce $45,270,000. This is $10,751,000 less than these same sources yielded the past two years.

$27,745,000 Needed

It is therefore necessary that we provide an additional state income of $27,745,000 in order to balance our budget.

Three million dollars of this amount is right coming from a reenactment of the privilege dividend tax.

The revenue bill, which has already passed the assembly and which is now under consideration in the senate, will yield $16,000,000.

This leaves $8,745,000 of new income or savings yet to be found in order to balance our budget.

I am determined that we balance our budget. We must meet this issue fairly, squarely and openly.

I see but two ways of doing this: First: We must further cut the costs of state government. I recommend earnestly that there be a 10 per cent reduction in the personnel of state service. This will give us a savings of $2,000,000.

I will recommend to the emergency board that they reduce budget appropriations $1,000,000 in the next two years, and I am confident that they will agree with me in this.

New Revenue Sought

Second: We must find new sources of income.

(1) By re-enacting the expired telephone company surtax which is estimated to yield $1,500,000 for the biennium.

(2) I further recommend the enactment of a measure imposing 4 cents a gallon on lubricating oil. This will yield $1,500,000.

(3) I further recommend that the existing taxes imposed on trucks, buses, trailers, etc., be amended to provide that the registration fee in no case shall exceed $35 each, and that a new tax be levied known as an occupational or privilege tax on all trucks, buses, trailers, etc., with the understanding that the total of the license and this new tax shall not exceed the taxes heretofore levied for a similar vehicle. This will yield $3,000,000 for the general fund.

Summarizing the above it gives us the following tabulation: $45,217,000—estimated under present law; $3,000,000—privilege dividend tax; $15,000,000—in present bill that has passed the assembly, which makes a total of $63,217,000. When this sum is added to the $8,000,000 from sources here recommended we would obtain $71,217,000.

Total needs to meet the required appropriations are $72,963,000 which is $254,000 less than the above.

I am convinced that telephone, travel, printing, postage and such expenses can be cut so as to bring an additional saving of $300,000.

Too Many Officials

I also recommend a complete reorganization of state government and thereby save other large sums of money. Why should we have three and five commissioners on our various boards? There is no more logic in it than there is in having three governors or three state treasurers. The tax commission, the highway commission, the public service commission, the board of control, the banking commission, the university board of regents, etc., should all be reorganized and a state motor vehicle department should be created. In all of these there will be a great saving and a greater degree of efficiency, for divided responsibility means no responsibility.

I recommend that you change the statutes which grant state employees three weeks vacation with pay, and reduce the vacation to two weeks.

Property Tax Limit

I recommend that you amend existing statutes to provide that the director of purchases and the director of personnel hereafter be appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the senate.

I recommend on behalf of the struggling taxpayers of Wisconsin, that you enact a measure prescribing a limitation on the power of taxing bodies in this state to levy taxes on general property. Farmers and owners of property, more than anyone else, are the foundation of government stability and security. They must be more secure in the ownership of their property—even against taxes. They are entitled to tax relief.

I recommend that you enact a measure giving county and local boards a greater control over their functions.

Adoption of the recommendations I have offered will promote the welfare of our citizens, will renew their faith in democracy and will encourage them to undertake ventures with greater confidence.

In closing I urge you to enact these measures without delay.

That Several Appleton Lawyers
Spent some time this morning pondering over the lineup for a barristers' baseball team.

Seems that along with an invitation to attend the picnic at Stroebe's Island Thursday, the Winnebago and Neenah-Menasha bar challenged the Outagamie and Calumet county lawyers to a diamond tilt. And so, a few of the Appleton attorneys put aside their briefs for a while this morning and concentrated on outfielders and batting orders.

It sounds a trifle incredible, but Alderman McGillan who captains the now famous city officials softball team says that his sluggers are gaining rather than losing weight during the present season that has brought some of them the first hard exercise they've had since that day they climbed trees and played hide-and-go-seek with the kids next door.

There were a few snorts of skepticism the other day in city hall when McGillan made his statement, but he stuck to it. Several of the players have gained weight, he said, over the 6-gams route the team has traveled. He himself, he asserts, has taken on seven pounds.

The cause can be conjectured

Sol Bloom New Head
Of House Committee

Washington — (AP) — Representative Sol Bloom (D-N. Y.), who gained national recognition as a 20th century publicist for George Washington, is the new chairman of the house foreign affairs committee.

He was elected by the house yesterday to succeed the late Representative McReynolds (D-Tenn.). Bloom had been acting chairman all this session while McReynolds was ill.

As director general of the George Washington Bicentennial commission in 1932, Bloom sought to re-sell the father of the country to the country.

He flooded the nation with pictures of the first president, and there's scarcely a schoolroom that doesn't have a portrait. He raked the history books and challenged most of the old Washington legends.

Near Completion of Lincoln School Work

The general contracting work on the remodeling of the Lincoln school building into a city hall will be completed by the first part of next week, a member of the Nimmer-Lemke Construction company said today.

Workmen are busy laying linoleum and painting on the first floor of the building at the present time. The only work remaining on the second floor is the rubbing down of paneling in the council chambers.

Awakening certain muscles that have been in cold storage for years is likely to heighten the appetite. If you were to check the family budget of the players you might find a leap in the food bill following games.

Important to Look Ahead in Try for Slam

BY ELY CULBERTSON

In many hands there are alternative bids which at first (and even second) sight seem to have precisely equal chances for success. At such times I strongly advise readers to take a third look. Some consideration may come to light that was previously too subtle or obscure to be perceptible.

♠ 10 9 8	♥ 7 6 5 4	♠ 10 9 8 7 6	♥ 5 4 3 2
♦ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3	♣ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	♦ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	♣ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

The bidding:
North East South West
1 spades Pass 1 spade Pass
2 spades Pass 2 spades Pass
3 spades Pass 3 spades Pass

Given the North-South hands as a bidding problem, very few players would detect any flaw in the above sequence. Taking bid by bid, they would have to approve North's one heart opening, South's spade response, and North's double raise. Then they would agree, I think, that South should make some sort of slam try, since he holds much better than North can expect from the noncommittal one spade response. Since the partnership was using the straight Culbertson system, including the 4-3 no trump convention, South with only one ace, could not bid four no trump, and his four club bid as a marked cue bid and slam try will be approved generally. But when North accepting this slam invitation, answers with one of his own (four no trump), South is unable to give all the information that North needs. South cannot respond with five no trump because he has neither two aces, nor one ace and the kings of all bid suits. He lacks the king of his own bid club suit. He cannot overcome this difficulty by jumping to six clubs, hence the best he can do is contract directly for a small slam in spades, the agreed suit. When this comes around to North the latter is hog-tied. For all North knows, South might have the following hand:

♠ K J 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2
♥ A K K
♦ A K K
♣ A K K

If he has a grand slam contract would be at the mercy of a double heart finesse. Patently, then, North cannot bid a grand slam, although on the actual combined holdings this higher contract is well justified. This brings us to our original thesis, which is that alternative bids may not be quite so "equal" as we assume at first glance. Consider for a moment what would happen if South, instead of bidding four clubs over North's three hearts, were to select the alternative slam try of four diamonds. North, as before, would bid four no trump, but now South is in a beautiful position: He can respond with five no trump because he holds one ace and the kings of all bid suits. By bringing the diamond suit into the picture, South has deliberately provided himself with the conventional answer to a four no trump bid which South should suspect that North probably will make!

And there we have the essence of preparedness in bidding, to foresee the probable course of an event and lay the foundation for an entire sequence of revealing bids. Obviously, once North knows that South has the club ace and the kings of spades, hearts, and diamonds, he needs no courage or optimism to contract for thirteen tricks.

Obviously, there is nothing to the play. South merely has to ruff one of dummy's hearts to take, in all, four heart tricks, five spades, two diamonds, one club, and one diamond ruff in dummy.

RASPBERRIES ARE IN SEASON

Raspberries served with sugar and cream are one of the treats during this season. For variety try these tempting desserts made with raspberries. An unusual dessert for a cozy supper is raspberry ice cream, with juicy raspberries baked right on top of a quick coffee cake. With a crusty coating over the fruit to lend it a distinctive flavor.

Raspberry Ice
2 quarts raspberries
1 cup water
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Sprinkle raspberries with sugar, cover and let stand three hours. Mash and strain through a fine sieve, add water and lemon juice. Freeze in freezer. Raspberry ice prepared in this way retains the natural color of the fruit.

Individual Raspberry Shortcakes
3 cups sifted flour
1 cup butter or cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 quarts raspberries
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift again. Cut in shortening, add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out on slightly floured board and roll 1/4 inch thick. Cut with floured 3-inch biscuit cutter. Place half of circles on ungreased baking sheet, brush with melted butter. Place remaining circles on top and butter tops well. Bake in hot oven 450 degrees F., 15 to 20 minutes.

Raspberry Kuchen
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
Sift flour once, measure, then sift flour, salt, baking powder, together. Cut in shortening until finely blended. Then blend in well beaten egg and the milk. Pat the dough into a deep well greased 8 inch square pan, pushing the dough up around the edges of the pan. Arrange berries over the top of dough. Cover with 1/2 cup brown sugar. Pour egg mixture over berries. Dot with 2 tablespoons butter and bake 35 to 40 minutes in a moderate oven 350 degrees.

Mixture for Top
2 cups fresh raspberries
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
Beat the egg slightly. Then blend in salt, 1/2 cup sugar, cornstarch, and

Add grapes, seedless or seeded, to lime or mint gelatin for a pleasing flavor contrast to serve with roasts, chops or fowl.

Sardines mixed with salad dressing and a few drops of lemon juice make an excellent filling for tiny tea biscuits. Serve them hot with soups or as appetizers.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

One of the best axioms of applied psychology is contained in the admonition: "Always hear both sides before you render a decision." Read today's case record and you will see how easy one could have jumped to the wrong conclusion if this rule had not been followed.

CASE N-192: Jimmy T., aged 4, is an intelligent youngster whose parents were recently divorced. His father has since remarried.

"Dr. Crane, I wonder if it is wise for me to let his father see Jimmy," his mother inquired.

"Every time I get him ready to go over for his routine visit, he cries or pleads with me to let him stay at home. He says he doesn't want to leave me.

"I try to tell him he'll enjoy his visit with his Daddy, but I wonder if it is right to force him to go?"

Now let's shift the scene a few days later to my luncheon engagement with Jimmy's father, who also is a good friend of mine.

"Dr. Crane, I wonder if it is wise to let Jimmy's mother have him so much of the time," the father inquired.

"Every time my visit with Jimmy is over and I get him ready to go home, he cries and pleads to stay with me. He doesn't want to leave me and go home to his mother."

"I try to tell him that he'll enjoy being back with his mother, but I wonder if it is right to force him to leave me. It almost breaks my heart."

DIAGNOSIS:
An experienced judge will tell you that many litigants in all sincerity will advance the same arguments against each other. Jimmy's father doesn't know that his mother has told be almost the identical story, except that Jimmy disrecreetly played upon her vanity while in her presence, and then does the same thing when with his father.

Long before youngsters reach the age of 4 years, they are clever little applied psychologists, so they know how to feed their parents what each parent wants to hear.

Jimmy is playing his mother against his father, and not necessarily with malice aforethought. He simply senses his father's desire to have Jimmy like him, so he tells his Daddy things which he finds will make the man happy.

Children Are Clever
Jimmy craves his father's love and favor, so he simply tries to win his father in this manner. But as soon as he is with his mother, he works the same principle upon her.

Youngsters have rather short memories, too, so they may tell a judge they prefer to live with mamma, if they are standing near her, but if queried in the presence of their father, they may reverse their stand and state a preference to live with him.

Like chameleons, these little liars which try to adopt the hue of the background on which they are situated, so children will often try to reflect what is expected of them. They are often surprisingly diplomatic in such situations, though as a rule children are not very tactful.

Hear Both Sides
One of the marks of a mature individual is his refusal to make a decision after hearing only one side of an argument, regardless of how convincing or pathetic such a tale may be.

Every man and woman has been taken in by some such tale of woe during youth. Professional men, as doctors and judges, soon learn to "yes" their clients or patients along, and then try to get the other story, too.

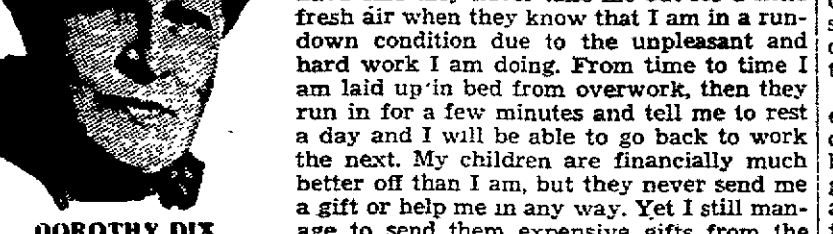

Jimmy's mother is sincere in thinking her boy dislikes visiting his father, so she has rationalized and come to the conclusion that the stepmother is cruel to her boy, which isn't so, for I know all the parties in this case. But she could persuade people to her viewpoint. Make it a rule to hear both sides!

Dr. Crane will give personal attention to questions on psychological problems. Write him in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent, enclosing a 3-cent stamp, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and a dime to cover printing and typing costs. Letters and readers' names are never published.

Parents May be at Fault if Grown Children Neglect Them

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I have been a devoted and indulgent father. I have worked hard to give my children a comfortable home, a good education and every advantage in my power. As long as they lived at home I never asked them to contribute to the upkeep of the family, although I was in very moderate circumstances. Now they are all grown and married, have good positions and live in the same town with me. But they are so wrapped up in their own good times that they seem to have forgotten that their father is living. They never come to see me, not even on holidays, and although they all have cars they never take me out for a little fresh air when they know that I am in a run-down condition due to the unpleasant and hard work I am doing. From time to time I am laid up in bed from overwork, then they run in for a few minutes and tell me to rest a day and I will be able to go back to work the next. My children are financially much better off than I am, but they never send me a gift or help me in any way. Yet I still manage to send them expensive gifts from the little earnings I save up by stinting myself. However, they show no appreciation for these. How can children so neglect the father who loves them?

DOROTHY DIX
little earnings I save up by stinting myself. However, they show no appreciation for these. How can children so neglect the father who loves them?

Answer:
It certainly seems to us a crime against nature when children get to be so selfish and so wrapped up in their own affairs that they forget the father who bore them and the mother who slaved through long, hard years to feed and clothe and educate them and keep them soft and comfortable.

But when we see such examples of filial ingratitude we must, in justice, recognize that the fault lies just as much at the parents' door as it does at the children's. For children are what their parents make them. They practice what their parents have taught them. Their morals and manners are the kind that their parents have instilled into them. And if their parents have brought them up to be selfish egotists who think of no one but themselves, it is the parents who are to blame more than the children.

Every child is born a little savage. Its instincts are to grab what it wants for itself and to fight tooth and nail for what it desires. It has no consideration for the feelings or rights of others. No compassion for others stops a baby from howling. No generosity makes a little child give any one else the biggest slice of cake. No appreciation for what others do for it makes it grateful. We have to be taught from our infancy up the finer qualities of conduct, just as we have to be taught how to eat properly. Our emotions have to be cultivated as well as our attitudes toward others.

And only too often parents ignore this fact. They think that children's love and gratitude to their parents comes naturally and that they do not have to teach it to them. Particularly do they believe that the filial virtues will develop in them magically along toward maturity, even if they have been lacking in the youngsters.

But this never happens. Parents establish in the cradle how their children are going to treat them. If from their first conscious knowledge they respect Mother and Father, to defer to them, to admire them, to feel that they have a duty toward them, to consider Mother's and Father's happiness and pleasure, as long as they live they will keep their parents on a pedestal. But if Mother and Father let Johnny and Susie beat them with their baby fists and talk back to them when they are a little older and defy them, and if Mother and Father deny themselves everything, then Johnny and Susie will walk roughshod over them when they are grown.

"As you sow, so shall you reap" is never so true about anything else as it is about the way you rear your children. If parents unplant in their children's minds no seed of duty toward them, they can expect to gather no bouquet of filial love from them.

This poor father whose children neglect him and have no time for him is only reaping what he has sown. If instead of making a slave of himself to them he had made them help Father a little, he would

as soon as he is with his mother, he works the same principle upon her.

Youngsters have rather short memories, too, so they may tell a judge they prefer to live with mamma, if they are standing near her, but if queried in the presence of their father, they may reverse their stand and state a preference to live with him.

Like chameleons, these little liars which try to adopt the hue of the background on which they are situated, so children will often try to reflect what is expected of them. They are often surprisingly diplomatic in such situations, though as a rule children are not very tactful.

Good Taste Today

WEDDING INVITATIONS
Dear Mrs. Post: How can I address one wedding invitation to my girl friend and include her parents whom I do not know very well? The daughter is my real friend and I would like the invitation to be addressed to her rather than to her parents, but for her sake I would like to venerate them. The real difficulty is that I cannot spare two invitations and must make the one suffice for all of them.

Answer: I am sorry, but you really cannot address the invitation to the daughter and then write the names of her parents underneath. Therefore, there is nothing you can do except reverse this order and address the envelope conventionally this way: Mr. and Mrs. John Brown and Miss Mary Brown. Underneath write Mary's name in the only way I can think of to emphasize her name. Or on the inside envelope, which—if you choose—can be addressed as personally as you like, you might write:

To Mr. and Mrs. Brown and to you, dear Mary.

... and Family
Dear Mrs. Post: If one cannot afford to follow good form to the letter and therefore has to send one wedding invitation to a family, would it at least be better form to write the "and family" after the Mr. and Mrs. John Brown on the inside envelope only and leave it off the mailing envelope?

Answer: In replying to this question I would like to explain that there are two objections to writing "and family." The first and less important one is that it is not approved by the world of fashion. The second and more important one is that its meaning is too indefinite. One is never sure whether an invitation to the family includes only those grown sons and daughters living under that roof, and not the grandmother who lives up the street, nor married daughter who lives down the street, or whether it is meant to include all of these, and daughter's child as well. In a younger family it is of course proper to address the mailing envelope "Mr. and Mrs. Charles Younger"

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

The girl or woman who has an oily complexion and an oily scalp has a hard job trying to look and feel groomed during the hot weather.

To begin with an oily condition is caused by an over-supply of oil exuding from the pores, and then the heat opens pores wider permitting a flooding. No amount of powder seems to absorb the secretion and, in fact, a girl makes a mistake by dabbing powder on her face constantly during hot weather. She is only clogging her pores, enlarging them, and despoiling skin beauty.

Incorrect diet and lack of proper exercise are probably at the root of the condition. Both causes should be corrected. The victim must take great care to see that both kidneys and bowels are eliminating their full share of impurities from the system. As many as eight glasses of cool (not iced) water each day, may be helpful.

Local Care
The daily use of an astringent skin tonic may help you, along with your regular cleansing treatment of frequent soap and water. Each outstanding cosmetic house sells a tonic for oily skin and I am sure that the girl at your local cosmetic counter will help you to intelligently select one for your problem. Such an astringent is used after a soap and water cleansing before make-up and it should not contain too high a percentage of alcohol or you will find your skin getting crepey.

Some of the leading houses have an astringent liquid powder foundation in several shades, which serves two purposes. It tends to keep your pores normal size and it also serves as your face powder if you select it in a shade to match your current skin tone. You may use a speck of rouge over it, and any shade of lipstick you wish. It is thin enough to allow your pores normal action and at the same time restrains them from discharging secretions too freely. Many women find such a foundation a boon to beauty in hot weather.

Added Precaution
There are two English products available which are unique in their service, one is an anti-shine powder and the other is an anti-skin liquid. These are put on over any skin astringent or tonic and under make-up. They are mixed especially to keep women from going around with a very shiny nose. Of course, they may be used on the forehead and chin also, if you do perspire there, and a very small dab of either seems to do what it is supposed to do.

If you are one who likes to mix things at home and try them out, I can give you the formula for a cleansing lotion for oily skin, and one for an astringent lotion. They are simple to mix and may meet your complexion needs, but I do honestly believe that the prepared commercial lotions and astringents have greater value. However, a self-addressed envelope, bearing a three cent stamp will bring these two recipes to you—write me care of this paper and ask for the Gilly Skin Treatment Leaflet. It is free.

Spanking Won't Teach Child How to Get Along With Others

BY ANGELO PATRI

Hans is past two, the only child in the family so far. This is the first time he has been allowed to play with other children and he is not doing as well as his mother expected. With her he is the best of children, obeying cheerfully, playing games happily, amusing himself alone for hours. With the other children he is quite different.

"Don't you want to take out your wagon? You could haul those little cars of yours in it instead of carrying them," suggests mother, seeing him with his arms piled high with tiny cars which he loves.

"No, the kids will use it. I'm going to play with the cars." In a few minutes there are sounds of battle. Mother rushes out the mothers of other children appear in doorways and windows. "Hans pinched a piece out of me," wails his victim.

Hans says nothing. He has turned his back on his friends and is busy with his cars, to which he has added those of the others if they happened to have had any.

Now Hans' mother is weary of this. She knows that the other mothers are about out of patience and that soon the neighbor children will be withdrawn from Hans' presence. His mother is ashamed of the boy's behavior, she fears his isolation: the only thing she can do now to prove her rightness to the other mothers, and to save her boy's place for him, is to spank him. This she does without effect. Next day it is the same story with variations. He slaps, bites, scratches and pinches according to his impulse. What now?

Don't spank him. Take him into the house the instant he shows his clenched hoof. Don't talk beyond saying, "It's too bad. You don't know how to play without hurting somebody. Stay by yourself," and leave him, without anything to play with, without anybody to speak to, until the isolation brings understanding of its cause. That takes anywhere from an hour to a couple of days. Then try again, and keep on with this routine training until he gets by this difficult place. You see he has never had the experience of playing with other children. It requires a give and take that he knows nothing about. When his mother plays with him he always gets, never gives. He cannot lose. But when he plays with children it is every one for himself. At this age that must be so. Little children play as individuals, not as a group. Occasionally the inexperienced little one gets himself slapped by one of the others. When that happens don't interfere. Let him hold his own and slap back. Interfere only if the combatants take to arms. No sticks, no shovels, no weapons are to be used. Otherwise they are to be left to fight it out and learn of each other the secret of cooperation, social compulsion. They have to learn that and the time is the present.

Children who are members of a family group rarely have this trouble. Brothers and sisters are not shy about protecting their belongings, their rights and privileges, and soon learn to adjust themselves to the group. It is the single child who needs to be introduced to his neighbors, and early.

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled, "The Bashful Child," in which he tells parents how to cope with oversensitiveness in children. Send for it, addressing your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

YESTERDAY: Tacks finds that Peck is a singer at the Hot Tap Club. She pays no attention to his wild applause of her performance. Later, he grabs her outside the club.

Chapter 11
A Blasted Life
It occurred to Tacks that there was something vaguely reminiscent of the Ice Age in Pecky's manner. "Very well," Pecky said now "Speak."

"All right," Tacks said hastily. "Let me take you home. Or else walk a couple of blocks with me." He indicated the massive doorman who stood aloof in Jovian attitude. "We can take here in front of the Bear That Walks Like a Man."

Pecky drew back. "If you have anything to say to me, say it right here in front of Dmitri." "Goodnight!" ejaculated Tacks. "Is that bushy-looking sap's name Dmitri?"

"It is," Pecky said frigidly. "Did you wish to discuss his name?" As a matter of fact the bushy-looking sap, in private life, sounded off to plain Joe Banks.

"I said Tacks, 'don't give a hoot what his name is. Look here, at least come back and let's lean against the building. We're blocking the fairway.'" and then include the names of their children on the inner envelope: Mr. and Mrs. Younger Tim, Betty and Fred

In any case I think this is the safer method whenever you are not sure that people will know exactly who "and family" is meant to include. It is certain sensible to address the mailing envelope to the head of the family then add the name of each member beneath the same name (or names) on the inner envelope. This would at least be specific and it seems to me much more personal than the too often confusing "and family."

gedly, "what have I got, scarletina rash, typhoid or hydrophobia? Why, ask me?"

"Darn it, I do ask you. You treat me as if I were a gutter mongrel with an advanced case of mange."

"Is there any good reason, Mr. Adams," Pecky said, "why I should bother to treat you any way at all?"

"None on earth. But there's as much reason why you should give me a break as why you shouldn't, isn't there?"

She shook her head. "I don't see it that way."

"Why not?"

"Need we go into it?"

"I'd rather, if you don't mind."

"I don't suppose it matters, Mr. Adams," said Pecky, "whether I mind or not. Nothing discourages you."

"I can't afford to be discouraged. This means too much to me."

She shot him a quick look out of black sparkling eyes.

"You aren't answering my question," Tacks said. "What the devil have I done to put you so far off me?"

"I'd rather not discuss it."

Walters Gives Reds 4-0 Win

Allows Only Four Safeties in 15th Victory; Cubs Chase Wyatt

BOSTON.—Behind the masterful, four hit pitching of Bucky Walters, the league leading Cincinnati Reds beat Boston's Bees, 4 to 0, Monday.

For a time it was feared the Reds would lose the services of Ernie Lombardi, their slugging catcher, but what was at first described as a split finger, later proved to be only a split nail.

In winning his fifteenth game of the season, Walters allowed but two Bees to reach second and none of them saw third. He passed none until the ninth, when the first hit, Outlaw, batting for MacFayden, drew a walk.

The game was the former infielder's seventeenth complete contest of the season and made him the leading hurler of both leagues in that respect.

The Reds' first run in the opening inning came when Gamble singled, went to third on Frey's single and scored on McCormick's fly to Garmes.

In the eighth they chalked up three more runs, all gifts. With one out, Frey singled, Werber flied to Cooney and Frey went to third when Warfield booted McCormick's grounder. Hersberger walked, filling the bases, and Craft doubled to the left field fence, clearing the bases.

Cubs Back in Third. Brooklyn.—(P)—The Chicago Cubs moved back into third place Tuesday by landing on three Dodger pitchers for 14 hits and an 11 to 2 victory. Manager Gabby Hartnett, with a pair of doubles, two runs scored and two driven in, and Carl Reynolds, with a triple and two singles, led the attack.

Meanwhile, Charley Root pitched five shutout ball to third year out in the sixth. Then singles by Dolf Camilli and Al Todd and a double by Gene Moore, combined with an outfield error, gave Brooklyn both of its runs. Root didn't give up a hit through the last three frames.

The Cubs got to Whit Wyatt for enough runs to win in the first two innings, but followed up with three more in the sixth off Vito Tamulis, with a Hartnett double the big blow; got another batch of four off Tamulis and Tot Pressnell in the eighth, when Reynolds opened with his three bagger and Hartnett rapped out his second double, and one more off Pressnell in the ninth.

Receive Entries For City Net Meet

Entries are being received at Pond Sport Shop for the fifth annual city tennis tournament which will open Monday, July 24. About 20 players already have entered and many more are expected by the end of the week. Girls and women will begin competition Monday while matches for boys and men will get underway the following Monday, July 31.

By Gordon H. McIntyre

HEBER PELKEY, secretary of Butte des Morts Golf club, today has a reminder for club golfers and others in this section. It's the effect that entries for the state amateur golf tournament must be in the hands of state officials by Saturday. The tournament opens at Butte des Morts July 31.

The tournament should attract a record entry from Butte des Morts this year because there's an event for practically every player who swings a club.

There's the amateur event for players with a handicap of 4 or less. They will seek the crown now worn by Lyn Lardner of Oconomowoc. Lardner shot a 67 in a warmup here yesterday.

Then there's the intermediate class for golfers from 18 to 49 years of age with a handicap of 5 or more and that's the division which really should get the play. A lot of Butte des Morts and other course players hereabouts would get a thrill out of competing in a state tournament and the division offers all the opportunity in the world.

A third event is the senior event for players 50 years of age or over and Joe Plank and Dan Steinberg, Sr., and others are expected to go in search of the honors.

The fourth event is the Father and Son event which this year will offer low gross and low net prizes and thereby should attract a larger entry. The yule cup event, a team event, also is scheduled. It features the scores of five players as a group.

Entries may be made either with Pelkey or at Butte des Morts.

George Woelz, who does his golfing at Butte des Morts, is feeling rather high about a recent 9-hole round when he totaled only 11 putts. That's good golf in any league. Earl Miller, Jack Taylor and Bob Joyce were with him when he chalked up his record.

George Pauk may not get into the softball headlines around here as often as he used to but as hurler for the Green Bay Bombers, featuring a number of Packer gridgers, he still gets the ink. Mulleneaux, Goldenberg, Bruder, Gatenben and Jankowski are among the grid performers who are George's teammates.

John Van Cuyk, youthful Kimberly ball player, will get a thrill late this month when he goes to Chicago to spend an afternoon pitching in batting practice before the Giant-Cub game. Van Cuyk now hurls for Bondell and has been hanging up a record list of strikeouts. He hasn't won every game because his support isn't the best in the world but he impresses.

Whether he is aware of it or not several old baseballers in this section have watched him work at the request of friends in the association and other leagues. The youngster is a southpaw, has a nice overhand fast ball but will have to pick up a curve and needs a lot of experience. Nevertheless he'll get a thrill and no doubt some of the experience when he opposes the majors. He is a big lad, with big hands and when he starts putting on weight will be a real prospect.

A story in another part of the Post-Crescent last night called him Bob. Bob is his brother catcher.

V. Dewey, D. Calmes Lead Hitters in Church League

V. DEWEY of the Evangelical team, with eight hits in the "seventeen tries to the plate" and a .471 batting average, is leading the Church League sluggers for the first round of play. D. Calmes of St. Therese ranks second with nine hits in twenty tries for a .450 average. They have played in five and six games respectively. Several other batters have better marks but have not performed as often.

Foster Taverns Face Three Unbeaten Teams

Foster Taverns of the American City league have scheduled games with two of the strongest teams in the city at Foster lighted diamond on E. John street this week.

The Taverns will face Coated Papers of the American Industrial league tonight. The Coated squad is undefeated in league play and will have Bobbie Diener on the mound.

Thursday night the Foster squad will take on the undefeated Y. M. C. A. team of the Fraternal league. Griessch will toss for the "Y" boys.

A crucial City league game is scheduled at Pierce park diamond this evening with the Foster team and Schaefer Dairy battling for a lone hold on first place. Both teams have three wins against no defeats in the second round of play.

FASTER THAN DEAN

Here's Schoolboy Impo, pitcher for the Ethiopian Clowns, who will show against the Kaukauna Yellow River team at night. He is reported to be as fast as Dizzy Dean and only the fast Negro ball players don't perform in the major leagues is keeping him out of organized ball.

Ethiopian Nine To Battle Kaws

Major League Ban Reacts In Favor of Fox Valley Fans Tonight

Kaukauna — The fact that colored diamond stars are barred from the major leagues is a break for the fans within the reach of Kaukauna for tonight local baseball followers will have an opportunity to witness in action the famous and original 1938 undefeated world colored champions, the Ethiopian Clowns Baseball club of Miami, Florida, who will meet the Mellow Brew nine in an 8.15 exhibition game.

The Ethiopian Clowns present a touring major league club in every way, shape and form, which newspaper critics have ranked on a par with the New York Yankees of the American league. Naturally, if colored talent were acceptable to the majors, none of these speedy, hard-hitting stars that compose the Clowns' line-up would be seen on semi-pro and minor league circuit diamonds, as these boys are genuine headliners in the art of the "national pastime."

Jimmy Powers, sports writer of the N. Y. Daily-News, has repeatedly written articles sponsoring the cause of the colored athlete and the part he would play in the majors, pointing to the success of the colored race in other sport ventures, such as boxing, track, football, basketball, etc.

Women Qualify For Matches in State Golf Meet

Mrs. Russell Mann and Goldie Bateson Share Medalist Honors

BELoit —(P)—Forecasts of rain were welcomed everywhere except by qualifiers for today's first round matches in the Wisconsin Women's Golf association's annual tournament on the Beloit Country club course.

Mrs. Russell Mann of Milwaukee, defending champion, served notice she was on her game by sharing medalist honors yesterday with Goldie Bateson, fellow Milwaukeean, each with 82s, six over par. They nearly duplicated their last year's efforts when, at North Hills (Milwaukee), Mrs. Mann was medalist with 80 and Miss Bateson next with 81.

Mrs. Mann was paired today with Mrs. Paul Parks of the Ozaukee course, Milwaukee, with Miss Bateson meeting Mrs. Karl Luetke of Green Lake.

Girl Disqualified. The qualifying limit turned out to be 100, highest in several years, when Lois Hausch, youthful Westmoor (Milwaukee) player, was disqualified. She failed to hole out a three inch putt on the 16th.

Five went into the playoff for the last spot in the championship flight, Mrs. Mary Brady of Tuckee away (Milwaukee) winning on the first hole with a five. The unsuccessful ones were Eleanor Loos, Westmoor; Mrs. George Weinbagen and Mrs. J. C. Merwin, Blue Mound, and Mrs. Don Stroh, North Hills. Rain was pouring down during the playoff.

Mrs. Lee Stutz of Madison scored a 97 but indicated she was competing in the team division only, and thus was out of the top flight.

Juniors, who played through rain, were led by Virginia Smith, 18, of Blue Mound, who had a pair of 48s for 96.

Eloise Briese, Kenosha, was four strokes behind the medalists with 86, and Merle Nickles, Madison, five behind.

Today's championship pairings, with qualifying scores, included: Mrs. Mann (82) versus Mrs. Parker (92).

Mason Callahan, Madison Nakoma (90) versus Mary Gardner, Beloit (95).

Eloise Briese (86) versus Mrs. Fred Uehlein, Milwaukee (94).

Mrs. John Clauser, Ozaukee (91) versus Ann Whyte, Kenosha (99).

Southern Netters Dominate Eastern Clay Court Meet

New York.—(P)—For one day, and maybe for only one—a couple of southern college players are ruling the roost in the eastern clay court tennis championships.

By constant application to their task, Billy Gillespie of Atlanta and Miami university and Jack Mahoney of New York and the University of Virginia led the field into the fifth round yesterday. Gillespie beat George Kraft of Brooklyn 6-2, 6-2, and Mahoney downed John Benna of Brown university, 6-4, 6-3.

They may not get much further for the seeded stars in the big field at the Jackson Heights club are just getting into action. Top-seeded Sidney Wood plays his first match today while Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla., seeded second, made an impressive debut yesterday.

Guernsey, national intercollegiate champion and recent winner of the New York state title, crushed Bryan Smith, 6-1, 6-3, CLEVELAND—(AP)—Though he struck out nine of them in the first six innings, the World Champion Yankees got to Bob Feller twice when it counted Monday and, behind the five hit pitching of their own Bump Hadley, whipped Feller and the Indians, 3-0. The triumph gave the Yankees a sweep of the three game series.

With Hadley scattering the Indians' safeties, four of them singles, over four innings, and giving only two bases on balls to Feller's four, the Yanks didn't need to unleash their customary dynamite. They got the winning run in the fifth, when George Selkirk walked, took second on a wild pitch, and scored on Babe Dahlgren's single to center, and then saluted the game away in the seventh.

Hadley opened this frame with a two-bagger along the left field foul line. He went to third while Frank Crosetti was being retired, and then ambled across the plate on Red Rolfe's screaming three bagger to left. Tom Henrich rapped a single to the same sector to score Rolfe with the final run.

Feller was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth after giving up six of the Yank's seven hits. It was his fourth defeat against 14 victories.

TIGERS POUND BOSTON

DETROIT—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers pounded three Boston pitchers for 15 hits Monday to down the Red Sox, 13 to 6, and snap their string of 12 consecutive victories.

Buck Newsum went all the way on the mound for Detroit. Although he was touched for 10 hits and walked six men he had little difficulty winning his tenth victory.

Woody Rich, Boston's starting pitcher, was pounded out in the third inning, when Detroit staged a six run rally. Joe Heving and Bill Sayles followed but were unable to stem the Averill hit two home runs and George Tebbetts a home run, double and a single for Detroit. The latter drove in five runs. Ted Williams hit a homer for the Sox.

Boston lost a full game to the league leading New York Yankees, victorious at Cleveland.

City Officials Find Team They Think They Can Beat—The P-C

Undaunted by defeat at the hands of the Power Company last week, Post-Crescent softballers have accepted a challenge hurled by the City Officials for a battle under the new lights at Spencer street athletic field Monday night, July 24.

The newspaper boys learned a lot in their session with the Powers and are getting set to redeem themselves at the expense of the City Officials.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., and Chief of Police George T. Prim umpired the Power-P.C tilt and the game Monday night, provides an opportunity to get back at the city heads for some of their questionable decisions.

Too, Ervin Bogan, who hurried for the Powers, probably will be on the mound for the city fathers and the Post-Crescent players have a few things to settle with him. After trimming the City Officials (?) the Post-Crescent will be looking for another game with the Powers.

Manager Eddie Starnard doesn't know whether his P-C proteges look like easy marks or if teams are scarce in the city for he has received bids for games from the Tuttle Press and Telephone Company which now are being considered.

Weyauwega Pike Hatchery Will be Expanded by State

MADISON—Good news for those sportsmen who some times wonder what the continuing increase in the number of fishermen may not eventually exhaust Wisconsin's supply is the disclosure that the state conservation department is confident that its artificial propagation production can shortly be boosted to 2,000,000 fish a year.

With 35 hatcheries last year producing a total of 1,200,000, the department expects soon to have two new and gigantic units in production. The first will be at Spooner, and will be one of the largest to date, with a capacity of about 700 hatching jars. The second is now being planned, and will be in north central Wisconsin. It will be the biggest hatchery ever erected, probably with 2,400 hatching jars.

Pleasing to the average fisherman—the man who likes to drop a line into the water on occasional weekends or summer evenings—is the plan to emphasize in the future pan-fish production. In past years, the emphasis has been on the better game fish, trout of all kinds, pike, muskie, and black bass. From now on the rock bass, sun fish, crappies, and the smaller flat fish will be given more attention.

The fish propagation expansion program will be financed from increased revenues expected to result from the cane pole and bait dealer licensing bills now before the legislature, and expected to pass. All most all of the extra funds will go to accrete pan fish production, in which Wisconsin has been something of a pioneer. As a matter of fact, the state is still the only one in the country which is hatching such varieties artificially.

If satisfactory financial arrangements can be made with the present owner, the conservation department will restore what has been called one of the greatest natural rearing and fish nesting ponds in central Wisconsin, a 300 acre place near Waupaca.

Once used as a trout pond by a private sportsman, the department would like to convert the place into a bass pond project, for the benefit of the central Wisconsin lake area.

Also in the department's project book for near-future action is an expansion of the operations of the Weyauwega pike hatchery, which serves the Wolf and Winnebago waters.

One of the new varieties planned for propagation there is great northern pike, according to Harley W. McKenzie, director of the state conservation department. Department agents at the Weyauwega station are now busy in rescue operations, retrieving thousands of small bass.

Discussing the rise of the recreational business in Wisconsin, Warden I. C. Rheume of the state department observes that out of it has grown a new occupation for Wisconsin residents, guiding tourists, fishermen and hunters in their trips.

Warden Rheume devotes some pages in a current department bulletin to this new work, and the picturesque feature of it. The men working as guides, for example, have developed a vocabulary all their own.

Here are some samples, which fishermen may or may not know: Muds—Mud minnows. Oscar—Name used for a live sucker bait. Piking—Slow or still fishing for walleyed pike. Raised him—used when the fish comes to the surface but does not strike. A bunt—A fish which actually bunts the bait but does not strike. Striking short—Fish striking bait behind the hook but not becoming hooked. Bird's nest—Line snarled in the reel by a backlash.

other time when you are not around to watch it. It might seem nice to have a glowing pile of embers waiting for you in the morning for your breakfast fire. But what if a wind should blow up during the night, what if the duff next to your tent should begin to burn. What would happen to your outfit and the green timber behind you. The same holds true when you leave to go fishing, even if just for half an hour. You never can tell and the only safe rule to follow is wet down that fire every time you leave, wet it down until the ashes are oozing with water. Only green bourns build big fires. You don't need an inferno for either a cooking or warming fire.

Don't wait until dark to pick a camp site. Quit early enough to make a good camp and enjoy the evening. Cutting around with an axe in the dark is bad business. And the same thing applies to the morning. Don't sleep too late. The morning is the time to pack up and move. It's no fun eating breakfast in the heat of the sun, knowing you have to hurry. Leisure is the secret of much of the enjoyment of a canoe trip. Hurry spells accidents short tempers, and trouble.

And above all, don't try to cover too much country. It is all beautiful and if you try and cover more than you should, you will find your sorrow that much of the fun is gone, that you are too tired to enjoy the scenery or the fishing. That when you are through, all you have is a pencilled line on a map which doesn't mean a thing to anyone but you. Take your time, learn to enjoy slowly; let the wilderness sink in. Hurrying is all right back in town, but you are in the wilds to escape all of that. Don't carry your speed habits with you—except when making or breaking camp, or cooking a meal. There you will have use of all the efficiency you can muster, but when travelling—don't try to make a record.

White Sox Head - Is Gravely Ill

J. Louis Comiskey Stricken at Wisconsin Summer Estate

CHICAGO—(AP)—Attending physicians hold little hope for the recovery of J. Louis Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox baseball club, who is critically ill at his summer estate near Eagle River, Wis., according to a statement today by the club's vice president, Harry Grabner.

"A statement by two doctors at Mr. Comiskey's bedside said his condition was very serious and that little hope is held for his recovery," Mr. Grabner said. "He is unconscious now and has been for a day or so. He has been in any oxygen tent day and night. The diagnosis is left ventricular failure, complicated by pulmonary oedema, according to Dr. R. A. Oldfield of Eagle River and Dr. L. E. Schiek of Rhinelander, Wis."

Eagle River, Wis.—(AP)—J. Louis Comiskey, 54-year-old owner of the Chicago White Sox, was gravely ill today at his summer estate near here.

Dr. Russell Oldfield, attending physician, began administering oxygen to the baseball magnate late last night.

Dr. Oldfield said, however, Comiskey appeared "brighter" and that there was "some hope." Comiskey's wife was summoned from Chicago yesterday when his condition became alarming. His three children, two daughters and a son, already were vacationing with him here.

A heart ailment, which has bothered him for years, was aggravated recently by a cold and complications.

Comiskey, who weighs around 375 pounds, has been ill periodically for many years and has spent considerable time in hospitals and sanitariums. His tremendous weight has been a handicap in his recovery but he has pulled through several previous illnesses.

Comiskey inherited the White Sox from his father, Charles A. Comiskey, who died here in 1931 at the summer retreat.

Giants Soaked Total of $460 In Fines So Far This Season

NEW YORK—(AP)—Jimmy Johnson, star pitcher of the New York Giants, was suspended today at the Polo Grounds Sunday to look over Bill Jurges and umpire Magerkurth. They say Joe Batista, the Tucson (Ariz.) hurler, star who was ticketed for Ohio State, may light at Michigan instead. The Giants have been soaked a total of $460 in fines to date. There is a suspicion abroad that the National league has that post-Fourth of July extra-light ball back in circulation again. Add flops: The late P. G. A. tournament—financially, that is.

The Indians have signed Tony Galante to do a little extra added attracting in a night game with the Browns Aug. 7.

Post Office Team Beats Tuttles in Softball Battle

Score Is 7-3; Losers 'Blow' in 10th Frame, Err Three Times

IF your postman walks with a little more zip today, or if you get your mail with a bit more dispatch, it's probably because the Post Office softball team defeated the Tuttle Press Monday evening by a 7 to 3 score in 10 innings. The contest was at Roosevelt diamond.

The feature of the game, according to the postal lads, was that Orv Strutz of the Tuttles, something of a powerful hitter for many moons, fanned four times.

The Tuttles got away to a fast start when they turned three hits into two runs in the first frame. The Postal lads came back with one run on a walk and a hit. In the third the Post Office crew evened the score with a run and in the fourth went ahead. The fifth saw the Pressmen tie the count at 3-all.

It remained that way through the seventh and into the extra frames until the Post Office scored four runs in the tenth on a lone hit. Two walks and three misuses by the Pressmen, who went all to pieces, helped in the scoring.

Goehler of the winners got a triple and Choudoir a double. Wilbur Strutz tripled and LaMarr doubled for the losers.

Farmakes Takes N. E. Golf Crown

Ridgeway Golfer Wins in B Flight; Other Ridgeway Entrants Fail

MENASHA—John Farmakes of Ridgeway Golf club won the B flight championship in the annual Northeastern Golf tournament at Takodah club at Fond du Lac. Jim Grode of Ridgeway won the flight championship last year with Herb Stinske, also of Ridgeway, as runner-up.

Stinske lost in the semi-finals of the flight to Herb Schnecksky of Sheboygan after surviving the first two rounds. Farmakes won from Tony Paul and Harvey Baethke in the first two rounds. In the semi-finals Farmakes shot a 74 to defeat Grode, three and two while in the championship match Farmakes beat Schnecksky four and three.

Jim Grode, competing in the championship flight this year, lost two and one to Jim Lohr of Sheboygan, last year's champion. Grode fired a belated rally that almost turned the tide. He was six-down at the time but then won four straight holes. On the sixteenth par five he was on the green in two but just failed to snare his birdie for a win. A tie on the seventeenth finished the match. In the same flight Jack Lemberg of Ridgeway lost to Joe Shields of Appleton four and three.

In the flight at the tournament, Frank Robinson of Ridgeway lost to Roy Wyatt in the semi-finals. Robinson previously had beaten M. L. Clough one-up in 21 holes and Koman Thornton one-up. Mike Sakellaris won his first match in the same flight but was eliminated by Wyatt in the second round.

Front Office Worries

A San Diego kid was late reported at the spot where the knot hole was assembled for Saturday games. So he had to pay his way into the park. Now his irate dad has written the club raising Cain about it.

Willie Sherdel, the old Cardinal pitcher, is the G. O. P. candidate for sheriff of Adams county, Pa. Here's one vote, Bill. They now are manufacturing a special big league ball for autograph purposes. It's about half the size of the regulation pill (otherwise the same) and is much cheaper. The world's series the fans really want to see is Cincinnati versus the Boston Red Sox. Baseball radio announcers aren't allowed to mention when a fan or fanette is clipped by a foul during a game. Lou Ambers begins training tomorrow at Carmel, N. Y. for the Armstrong lightweight title fight.

Today's Guest Star

Jack McKernan, Bangor (Me.) Commercial "U. of Maine" will have its line and backfield strength evenly distributed next season. What with Stan Johnson, N. A. TOMMY BRIDGES
Smith County, Tennessee's No. 2 Citizen

Bridges Traces Wins to Health And Raised Seams on A. L. Ball

BY DALE STAFFORD

AP Feature Service

DETROIT—Like the fabled fifty-million Frenchmen, the two major citizens of Detroit modestly admit they can't be wrong, and they are hailing Tommy as Davis Bridges as the baseball player who made the best comeback in 1939.

Before mid-July, Tennessee Tommy, who passed up medicine for baseball, had won eleven victories as against only two defeats. He had won 19 of his last 22 starts for the Tigers.

What is the reason for his return to the form of 1934, 1935 and 1936 when he won more than 20 games each season?

Bridges attributes it to two things. One is the new American-league ball with the seams raised the tiniest fraction of an inch. The other is complete recovery from sickness and a chipped elbow that harassed him all through 1937 and until the closing weeks of the 1938 campaign.

"This new ball feels better when I pitch it," says Bridges. "It is easier to grip and consequently it is easier to control my curve. Last year's ball, in addition to being hard to grip, didn't appear uniform."

Now 32 years old, Bridges is in his fifth season of a professional career that started after he left the University of Tennessee in 1929 to go with Wheeling in the Middle Atlantic league.

He tarried in the minors for less than two seasons before joining Detroit late in 1930.

Valley League Gossip

KALAKOVSKI, Menasha Falcon, right fielder, had a perfect day at the plate against Neenah last Sunday getting a home run, double and three singles. With hitting like that the Falcons are bound to be a contender for the second half honors.

Manager Joey Vils sent in two pinch hitters against Manitowoc with Pebs Kappell singling over second base and Les Lambie blasting a double which would have been a homer in the Kaukauna park.

Tuffy Horn set a league record in the Kimberly-Little Chute fracas when he received four free trips to first base and came through with two hits. Horn is one of the Papermaker's most consistent players.

Three homers featured in the Neenah-Menasha grudge affair with Ben Peck, Eddie Gullickson and Kalakovski contributing one each. The game usually ends with a power in their swings when these arch rivals meet. The Falcons showed the most power at the plate with 15 hits.

Little Chute pulled another successful squeeze play at Kimberly with Ory Bongers laying down a nice bunt to score Strick and take a temporary lead. It was short-lived as the Papermaker bats soon started to boom.

Buck Le May is back on his feet again after submitting to an operation a few weeks ago. He will be in the harness in another few weeks.

Dago Schuler relieved his brother Eddie on the mound to score a victory over Manitowoc last Sunday. This is the second time in a week that Dago stepped in to stop opponents. Last Wednesday he pitched for Kimberly in check for five innings to be the winning hurler.

Bob Roth, son of Johnny Roth, Oshkosh manager, has been playing regularly at second base the past month and promises to be a star in faster company in a few seasons. Bob picked up a lot of baseball with the Junior American legion team a few years ago.

Hunter Lake dropped another game due to no hitting by his teammates, Bechers Tavern. They got only five hits last Sunday against

Favor O'Brien for Quarterback Post

Texas Christian Star Has
Big Lead Over Nearest Rival

CHICAGO—(AP)—The football fans participating in the nation-wide poll to select a squad of college all-stars to play the New York pro Giants are showing a decided preference for Davey O'Brien as quarterback on the composite selection.

O'Brien, brilliant star at Texas Christian last fall, has polled 242,173 votes, almost three times as many as his nearest rival.

The squad of college seniors will play the Giants in Soldier Field the night of Aug. 30. The poll closes at midnight next Saturday.

The leaders:

Ends—Earl Brown, Notre Dame, 137,518; Bowden Wyatt, Tennessee, 118,948; Bill Daddio, Pittsburgh, 115,726; George Lenc, Augustana, Ill. College, 113,173.

Tackles—Ed Haak, Indiana, 124,893; Ed Beiner, Notre Dame, 119,204; Al Wolff, Santa Clara, 101,517; Joe Mihal, Purdue, 93,478.

Guards—Ralph Helkkinen, Michigan, 140,735; Ed Bock, Iowa State, 118,428; Horace Bell, Minnesota, 99,394; Mike Kocheil, Fordham, 91,982.

Centers—Dan Hill, Duke, 126,958; Ed Longhi, Notre Dame, 79,324.

Quarterbacks—O'Brien, 242,173; Ed Hofer, Notre Dame, 88,327.

Halfbacks—Bob MacLeod, Dartmouth, 186,173; Marshall Goldberg, Pittsburgh, 179,488; John Pingel, Michigan State, 171,928; Bronco Smilanich, Arizona, 142,687.

Fullbacks—Howard Weiss, Wisconsin, 194,802; Dave Anderson, California, 87,495.

Bill Peotter scored a home run against Little Chute last Friday evening but it was on a lost ball which Lefty Wildenberg couldn't find in the lost hit in right center. What hurt most was that two mates scored ahead of Peotter to send the Papermaker hopes soaring and Dutchmen roters down to a low level.

Next Sunday's games are slated to be humdrums with the leading Menasha Falcons, host to the first half champs, the Kimberly Papermakers, at the Menasha park. Green Bay invades Little Chute to battle the A.A. squad in a morning contest. The Chuters must win to stay in the running for second half honors. Oshkosh invades Kaukauna and a victory for the former can put it in a 2-way tie for second place. A win for the Mellow Brews means first place providing Kimberly tips Menasha. The other contest has Manitowoc invading Neenah. Appleton will be idle.

Two smart plays were pulled by Kimberly against Little Chute with Kobs scampering all the way to second base after striking out. Catcher Butts Strick failed to go after the missed ball claiming it was a tick foul but the ump ruled otherwise. The other play saw Sonny Wildenberg scoring on a foul fly with home plate unguarded. Strick and Wildenberg both tried for the fly with Wildenberg sharing it but too late to catch Sonny Wildenberg as he scored.

"But I insist on discussing it. Am I so hideous-looking?"

"I've never considered the matter. But looks don't enter into it."

"Yours do."

"I beg pardon."

"Nothing. I only murmured that you're a knockout. Can't I take you home?"

"Certainly not. You don't seem very quick in the uptake, Mr. Adams. I've tried awfully hard to make it clear that I don't want to receive letters from you. I've also tried to signify that I'd just as soon not have you telephone me. I'm now doing my level best to tell you that I don't want to stand here talking to you and that, if you came to this club tonight because you found out somehow that I work here, I—well, I wish you wouldn't do it again."

A Worm Shows Fight

Tacks grinned and the grin did a good job for him. Watching it spread across his rather engaging face, Packy came within an ace of relenting. She didn't quite make it, however. This young man needed putting in his place.

"I see," said Tacks, still grinning. "Just an invitation to the dance. But you haven't told me why yet."

"And I don't think I will. Now please go or I'll—Till call Dmitri."

At mention of his bewhiskered Nemesis, Tacks knew a moment of savagery.

"I just wish you would call him," he said darkly. "There's nothing I'd enjoy more than making a pass at that big baboon."

Packy regarded his adhesive-plastered jaw.

"I wouldn't take a chance with the other side of my face," she said cuttingly.

"We'll let that go," Tacks said, summoning what dignity he could.

"I may say, however, that it was a most unkind remark. Considering that it was your fault—yours and an alley-cat's—that I hurt my chin."

A look of suspicion flashed into Packy's eyes. "Are you tight, by any chance, Mr. Adams? If not, you may understand that I hardly appreciate being included in the same breath with an alley-cat."

To his intense surprise Tacks was beginning to find that it was quite possible to get angry at this girl.

"By gosh," he said, "there are times, just once in a while, when I think you ought to be included with an alley-cat."

Packy stared at him in astonishment. Heretofore, this Adams had adopted a wormlike attitude toward her. Now it appeared that the worm was capable of showing fight. A zephyr wafted over her interest.

"I don't know why I stay here and let you insult me," she said.

Tacks showed contrition too quickly. The zephyr ceased blowing.

"I'm sorry," he said. "You got me sore for a moment."

"Really?" Packy said. "This is a very pointless conversation. If you have anything to add, Mr. Adams, please add it. Otherwise I'm going."

"Wait a minute! Look here, Miss North, I admit I crashed your apartment house. I admit I wasn't a paragon of subtlety once I got there. I admit I lied to you in a small way. But what of it? Since then I've tried to make amends. I've written, I've tried to apologize and—er—fix things up over the telephone. Is there any good reason why we can't be friends?"

He paused, out of breath. For one dangerous wavering moment Miss Packy North was on the verge of skipping it and being friends. After all, this young man was nice. But Packy was a woman who had taken a position with respect to one Tacks Adams. And with the celebrated perversity of Woman-kind, she elected now to do the exact opposite of the thing she would really liked to have done.

"If you're quite finished," she said haughtily, "perhaps you'll let me talk. Listen! I didn't mind anything that went on that first day. But everything is different now. I know who you are. And you knew, too, that I'd know what your name signifies or what you think it signifies. Jonathan Harland Adams! That conjures up a lot, doesn't it, to anyone who's ever read a social note or looked at a rotogravure section? Polo ponies, fast cars,

Women Foresters Map Plans For Picnic Supper at Park

Kaukauna — Plans for a picnic supper Wednesday at LaFollette park have been completed by Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, Court No. 556, under the leadership of Mrs. L. N. Perry, chairman. Adult and juvenile members will meet at 2 o'clock at the park where games and cards will provide entertainment.

Assisting Mrs. Perry on the serving committee will be Mrs. Paul Sassekink, Mrs. Joseph Kline, Mrs. J. Schmidtkofer, Mrs. David Egan, Mrs. Mary Hoolihan, Mrs. Lena Thelan, Mrs. H. Keyzers, Mrs. Emil Leick and Mrs. Della Jansen.

Circle Hamilton of the Methodist church will have a picnic luncheon at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon on the lawn at the residence of Mrs. Alex Wolf, 919 Wilson street. Each member will bring her own sandwiches and dishes and a dish to get worked up to such a pitch that he had barked at the world's most wonderful woman. And all because she had accused him with certain justice, of being a masher. And that—why, by gosh, that was exactly what he had been like. A masher. What he should have done, he perceived now, was reason with her, prove to her that he was sincere. But instead of that, he had jumped down her throat. Oh, this was horrible. He bounded up, tripped over the crepe de chine pajamas and fell upon the telephone as if it had been a loose ball. But with the thing in his hands, courage deserted him. Gosh, he couldn't call her now. What a fool he'd look. Why, she'd laugh in his face or, rather, ear. And you couldn't blame her. No, he was licked, washed up. Nothing remained except to go to bed and dream about the might-have-been. Bumping the telephone down, Tacks went miserably to bed.

And meanwhile, Miss Packy North, very fetching in her black negligee with the white crescents, was gazing into a full-length mirror. "Him!" said Miss Packy North. "A torch-singer. A lump of ice. I can go try my hat, can I? Well, I... oh, don't be a fool, Packy. You—you can't afford to let your self care."

Robert Samz Discusses Activities at Military Academy

Chilwaukee — Robert Samz, a cadet at the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., was a guest of the Rotarians at their Monday noon luncheon at Hotel Marson. Cadet Samz talked on activities at the academy, where he has completed his second year. He has completed a regular day's program, from reveille at 6 o'clock with breakfast at 6:30 and the day's classes from 7:55 in the morning to 3 o'clock in the afternoon. He mentioned the subjects which he is taking: English, French, physics, mathematics, history and drawing, which are alternated every two days. After 3 o'clock on four days a week, there is a week-day parade. There are about 1,800 cadets at the school, of whom one-half are on parade one day and the other half on the following day.

A large number of students are required to remain at West Point for summer training. Cadet Samz and Mrs. Walter Sander at Fremont Saturday evening.

Pegler Backs U.P. Against Accusations of Roosevelt

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York — In charging the United Press with fakery, President Roosevelt condemned the familiar newspaper phrase "it is reported" and said it was a practice, too often engaged in to invent reports out of a clear sky. I believe Mrs. Roosevelt also objected to this and similar terms some time ago.

The charge of faking in this instance concerns a state department story, and the president seems to have convinced himself that the two Washington reporters who collaborated on the piece, one working in the senate the other at the state department sat down and, with cold premeditation, invented a false report. He doesn't entertain the possibility that the story could have been planted, although this is one of the risks that Washington reporters must contend with. It has been known to happen in all the big capitals, and the Associated Press had an embarrassing experience of this kind with a Vatican story about two years ago. But unless a journalist has been bribed or is devoted to one of the treacherous isms he would have no motive for inventing fakes and certainly use of the expression which the president denounces as an evasion or responsibility is no choice of those who find themselves compelled to employ it. This evasion begins not with the reporters, but with men on the president's side of the problem, which is to say the politicians and officials who conduct the government. A reporter would be glad, in all cases, to give the name of the man who issued the information, and when he fails to do so and attributes his story to "official circles" or other equally vague sources the fault is not his. It is common practice among politicians and officials to give information with the condition that the source is not to be revealed. Presidents have done this, and it is my impression that Mr. Roosevelt himself has given out information with the understanding that it could be used but not attributed to him. In such cases the reporter uses the form which the president now condemns, or one of its variants.

Although it is possible that the story was planted and possible that it was false, it does not necessarily follow that it was planted or false. The president says it was false, but he said last week that political considerations did not enter into the appointment of Paul McNutt to his new position. And those who know Lyle Wilson, the manager of the U. P. Washington bureau, will give consideration to the fact that he just happens to be one of the best journalists in the country. It might be kept in mind, also, that the president recently had the effrontery to call him in and lecture him not on the facts of a story which he had written but on the emphasis or treatment.

He Has Created Idea That They're His Enemies
Early in his rule Mr. Roosevelt's anti-press campaign was directed only at the publishers, and the sympathized with the journalists as unfortunate, inkstained wretches who had to pocket their principles and ethics and serve their masters. He may have had in mind John Boettiger, now his son-in-law and an ecstatic New Deal editor and political agent, because Mr. Boettiger at that time was writing stories—for a salary—to the effect that the president was trying to make himself dictator. This patronizing attitude and the assumption that the reporters shared his opinion of American journalism won the president some early following in the corps, but as time passed, resentment developed because many newspaper people have a feeling that for all its shortcomings journalism is in no way inferior to the president's trade of politics and that reporters and publishers, as a group or as two groups compare quite well with politicians. Recently the president has singled out individual working newspaper men for his displeasure. The early crush, definitely, is over.

The cleverness of the move, against the United Press and Wilson, is apparent. By this denunciation Mr. Roosevelt has created in the public mind a suggestion that the U. P. and Wilson are his enemies and that henceforth news unfavorable to the administration, especially political news, may be discontinued. He has put Wilson on the spot.
